A THRILLING EPISODE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Friday, April 24, 1863.

Members began to depart yesterday. Others followed by the early trains to-day. Nevertheless, nearly or quite the usual number was present this morning. In the Senate, the Broadway bill hung in in a state of some doubt, while the Cross-Town and Staten Island Ferry bills were very much in the same condition. The question was, would the Senate recede from the position of non-concurrence in the House amendments to the Broadway, or adhere, and thus send the bill back to the House? The latter course would be attended by great danger, it being extremely doubtful whether a majority could again be obtained for it in that body. And yet concurrence seemed to be almost equally difficult.

The position of Senator MURPHY in favor of the bill in detail, but opposed in the aggregate, provoked much comment. Nevertheless, the friends of the bill hoped for his vote in the end. In fact, this became a necessity. And yet Senator M. was a man of independent action, and though apparently not quite satisfied with his own position, he would shape his own course without fear or favor, though possibly not without a sense of embarrassment.

Last evening the House thought it discovered one of those little jokers which sometimes turn up in bills passed, after having been killed off in bills defeated. The case was this: The bill requiring County Treasurers to pay over the moneys in their hands to the State Treasurer when collected, instead of retaining the same for other purposes, was last year before the Legislature, and, after a hot contest, defeated. This year it again made its appearance in the House, where, on repeated trials, the fact was developed that a majority was opposed to it. It was discovered last evening, however, that the annual Tax law, then in the hands of the Governor, contained a section embodying the objectional features of this bill, when Mr. T. C. FIELDS offered a resolution asking for the return of that bill. On the return of the bill to the House the objection-able clause was stricken out, and the bill sent to the Senate. This morning the Senate non-concurred in the action of the House: sent back the bill with a message to that effect, and asked for a Committee of Conference; whereupon Mr. T. C. FIELDS moved to adhere, and decline the request for a Committee of Conference. This was carried—Yeas, 72; Nays, 21. The bill with a message setting forth the action of the House, was then sent to the Senate. Senators MURPHY, GANSON, CLARK and FOLGER denounced the action of the House as irregular and revolutionary, and maintained that the self-respect and dignity of the Senate required that it should insist on its own action, instead of receding to gratify the House, whose action, Senator CLARK more than intimated, arose from a regard for the pecuniary interest of County Treasurers. Even if the Tax law failed, it was said, it were better it should be so than that the irregular and reprehensible course of the Assembly be acquiesced in. If that bill should fail, under such circumstances, let it be so, and the responsibility and the motive would be well enough understood.

After a protracted debate, the Senate finally adopted a resolution that inasmuch as the bill had passed both Houses, and was in the hands of the Governor, the Assembly could not recall it without the consent of the Senate; and that, therefore, the Senate declines to take further action in the matter. As the case stands, unless the House recedes, the Annual Tax bill will fail, unless the bill, with the objectionable clause stricken out, receives the signature of the Governor.

The presentation of flags borne by New-York regiments in the field, and sent home to be placed in the archives of the State, in the Assembly Chamber, to-day, was a scene of deeply thrilling interest.

At the hour of 12, in accordance with a joint resolution, the Senate, preceded by His Excellency, Gov. SEYMOUR, appeared in the Assembly Chamber, followed by the Adjutant-General, Major SPRAGUE, and his clerks, bearing seven regimental flags, in their torn, blood-stained and soiled condition, more eloquent than any words could be.

Gov. SEYMOUR, seated in the Speaker's [illegible] presided over the joint Convention, and [illegible] that the Adjutant-General, in presenting the flags, would give briefly some particulars of their history.

Major SPRAGUE thereupon proceeded to do so, prefacing, in language of genuine patriotic eloquence, the detailed account of the flags, which was heartily cheered. As each flag was unfolded and the torn remnants displayed, the joint Convention and the crowded lobbies and galleries were deeply moved, and cheered vociferously.

At the conclusion of this ceremony, Senator SMITH offered a series of resolutions, thanking our soldiers in the field, pledging to sustain them to the end, and to support the Government till the rebellion was put down.

Senator FOLGER spoke briefly and eloquently to the resolutions, and was followed by Mr. T. C. FIELDS, when Lieut.-Gov. JONES read a poem by ALFRED B. STREET, Esq., which was excellent, and well adapted to the occasion.

Gov. SEYMOUR then rose to put the question on the resolutions, and in doing so made some eloquent and appropriate remarks, after which the question was put and carried unanimously, followed by three cheers, in which all joined with a will.

Mr. DEAN, of the Assembly, then moved that the proceedings of this joint Convention be prepared, under the supervision of the Adjutant-General, that 200,000 copies be printed, and one copy sent by the Governor to each soldier from this State in the field, the remainder to be distributed among the members of the Legislature. This was adopted unanimously.

The proceedings were in all respects highly appropriate, as well as extremely impressive. It was, moreover, a genuine love-feast of patriotism, ending in a formal, thoroughly meant pledge of the Empire State, by her Representatives in joint Convention, presided over by his Excellency the Governor, in the presence of flags stained by the blood of her sons, and in the name of the memories of her fallen heroes, to fight on, fight ever, till this rebellion is crushed and the country again united.

At the time I close this dispatch no change in the posture of affairs touching the fate of bills has taken place, nor has the day been productive of anything of special moment beyond what I have given. No light has been shed on Broadway, about whose fate I am disposed to think there is some doubt after all, linked as it is with other bills that have at least strength enough to kill or cure, according to circumstances.

The Cross-town bill, with that extraordinary degree of vitality it has manifested from the beginning, has gone to a third reading in the Senate, while the Staten Island bill is thought to be in a hopeful condition. The vote on both may be telegraphed before this gets into print.

Concerning the final adjournment nothing is yet certain, the House resolution to adjourn to-day at 1 P. M., having been laid on the table in the Senate. That body is not ready to indicate the day or the hour. It may be safely predicted that the session will close sometime between the rising of the sun to-morrow, and the succeeding reappearance of that luminary.

Charges of Bribery and Corruption Against our Legislators.

A MEMBER OF THE ASSEMBLY ARRESTED.

ALBANY, Friday, April 24.

WILLIAM BROWN, Member of the Assembly from the Third District of Monroe County, was arrested this morning, on the charge of receiving a valuable consideration for his vote on a certain bill, then pending before the Assembly.

GIDEON SEARLS, late a member of the Assembly from Cattaraugus County, was also arrested on the charge of bribery and corruption in connection with legislative matters.

The examination of Mr. BROWN before Justice COLE is proceeding. Messrs. SCHAFER, HADLEY, WERNER and HAND are the counsel for the people, and Messrs. COCHRANE, HARRIS and HOLSTEIN for the defence.

ALBANY, Friday, April 24—P. M.

In the examination of Mr. BROWN, member of Assembly from Monroe County, before Justice COLE, this afternoon, JAMES R. THOMPSON testified that he was employed to advocate the Broadway Railroad. He introduced Mr. BROWN to GIDEON SEARS and MATTHEW T. BEMIS; that it was agreed to give BROWN $400—$200 down and $200 after voting for the bill; that subsequently Mr. BROWN, before the bill was acted on, returned the money, saying he could not effect anything with it, and he did not accept it for his own vote. On cross-examination, Mr. THOMPSON testified that he had received about $50 for his sevices; expected $700 more, and had received $300 for supporting Mr. CALLICOT for Speaker. The complaint against parties on the Broadway bill is made by THEODORE MCNAMEE, of the firm of BOWEN and MCNAMEE. The examination, it is expected, will continue several days.

IMPORTANT FROM TENNESSEE.

A Raid of National Forces into McMinnville.

The Place Surprised and Captured Without Difficulty.

A Large Amount of Rebel Stores Destroyed, and Railroads and Telegraphs Cut.

MURFREESBORO, Tenn., Friday, April 24.

Gen. REYNOLDS reports from Liberty the particulars of the McMinnville affair. The main mounted force, under Cols. WILDER and MINTY, arrived at McMinnville at 1 o'clock on Wednesday morning, taking the place almost entirely by surprise. A rebel force, under GRIGSBY, was in front of the town, but Gen. REYNOLDS amused them while Col. WILDER went into the place. GRIGSBY escaped.

Col. LONGWORTH, of the Ohio cavalry, struck the railroad, destroyed the telegraph and bridges between Morrison and Manchester, and burned a train of cars and locomotive, together with other spare cars at various places, and vast quantities of meat.

Capt. WICKLIFFE, of the Second Kentucky cavalry, in charge of an important part of the expedition, got drunk, and was sent in under arrest, disgraced.

At McMinnville, Col. WILDER destroyed the bridges, 600 blankets, 30,000 pounds of bacon, two hogsheads of sugar, three hogsheads of rice, eight barrels of whisky, 200 bales of cotton, one large cotton factory, one large mill and one small one, one camp at Charley's Creek, and subsequently one at Liberty, and took 300 prisoners, among them DICK MCCANN, who afterward escaped. Lieut.-Col. MARTIN, rebel, was mortally wounded.

Gen. REYNOLDS then moved toward Liberty. MORGAN is moving toward Carthage, near Alexandria. Our scouts are picking up rebels every half hour. Among them is a Captain. Gen. REYNOLDS destroyed a mill at Liberty, which had been doing good work for the rebels.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Friday, April 24.

After the destruction of Celina, Tenn., a party from Tompkinsville, Ky., Wednesday, burned the Courthouse and half a dozen other buildings, killed five or six Union men, and retreated.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Friday, April 24.

It is reported that our forces are in possession of McMinnville. Gen. REYNOLDS' force, consisting of one brigade of cavalry and three brigades of infantry, entered the town on Wednesday and took the rebels by surprise, capturing Mrs. Gen. JOHN MORGAN, 250 prisoners and two wagon trains. The casualties on our side are not yet ascertained. Nearly the whole of MORGAN's force were stationed at McMinnville, and upon our attack, sought safety by flight.

The order of Gen. MITCHELL, requiring rebel sympathizers to take the oath of allegiance, is causing great consternation among the disloyal citizens. Several hundred males and females have subscribed to it.

The river is falling. There is four feet of water on the shoals.

FROM THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Details of the Operations of General Stoneman's Command.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Wednesday, April 22, 1863.

A messenger, direct from Gen. STONEMAN's headquarters, arrived here last evening, with news of the movements of the cavalry up to the evening before. Gen. STONEMAN's headquarters were then at Bealeton Station, and he was about starting toward ——. Tuesday night, the 14th, the corps encamped in the vicinity of "Spotted Tavern," 3½ miles west of Hartwood. The river had become so swollen by the recent rains that it was found impracticable to attempt to ford near Kellysville, and therefore the corps was pushed forward to Rappahannock Station, on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad. Here the enemy had a small earthwork and rifle-pits, with a small picket to protect the bridge, and another small force at the fording place just below the bridge. A brigade of cavalry was sent across by the ford—the most serious obstacle to their passage being a telegraph wire stretched across poles under water near the opposite bank, in the meshes of which several of the foremost horses were caught, and falling, their riders were washed away by the current; and one or more of them, thus summarily unhorsed, have not since been seen, and it is supposed they were drowned. The rebel picket fired a few scattering shots during the crossing, but were easily dispersed by the covering party. The immediate object of this movement was to reconnoiter the country for rebels, food and forage. At first only a few rebels were to be seen, and these kept at a very respectable distance. As for food or forage, that whole country has been cleaned out, and only a little wheat could be found. After scouring the country for miles around, a force of cavalry made its appearance, closely followed by a train of cars, (from Culpepper,) bringing a small body of infantry and three pieces of artillery. In obedience to orders, our cavalry recrossed the river, when the rebels commenced pelting the railroad bridge, but two of our 3-inch young ladies soon made them fall out of range. In this skirmish Lieut. STONE, Co. H, First Maine cavalry, was captured, a private belonging to the Sixth Regulars was killed, and six or eight of our men were wounded. Ten rebels were captured. Their loss in killed and wounded was not ascertained. Since Wednesday detachments have visited Fox's Ford, Freeman's Ford—both above the railroad bridge—Warrenton, and other points in that vicinity. The only rebel troops found were a remnant of the once famous Black Horse cavalry. Small parties were sent across the river at several places, and three or four unimportant skirmishes took place. There is a brigade of infantry in supporting distance of the cavalry.

Workmen are engaged repairing the track of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad near Bealeton.

The railroad bridge is now under the protection of our own guns.

P. S.—Half-past 9 o'clock A. M., Wednesday.—A messenger, just arrived, reports that Gen. STONEMAN was still north of the Rappahannock.

A council of war, composed of all the commanders of corps, was held last night.

Assistant Adjutant-General DICKERSON left by special train and boat, early this A. M., for Washington, with dispatches from Gen. HOOKER to the President.

The Army Yet North of the Rappahannock—Heavy Falls of Rain—The Effect of One Fair Day—Sufferings of the Inhabitants in the Vicinity of Fredericksburgh, &c.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, OPPOSITE FREDERICKSBURGH, April 23, 1863.

By the above it will be seen that this army is yet north of the Rappahannock. The weather thus far during the present month—true to its ancient prestige—has been very capricious. One Summer-like day only has been vouchsafed us, and that created a magic change. The green grass which for weeks has been struggling for an existence above the surface, suddenly sprang up to a respectable height, covering the country with a rich green carpet; the fruit trees shook out their blossoms, and the worshipers of Flora were gratified with the fragrance of a thousand flowers. This gushing out of nature in a country in every other respect barren and cheerless, is like finding flowers in a Golgotha. The only other evidence of life, besides the presence of this army, to be seen in this vicinity, is occasionally a small plowed field, in which are planted a few of the actual necessaries of life. No one ventures to put into the ground more seed than they require for their own use, because of the possibility that others may reap where they have sown. One of the largest landholders in this vicinity has not yet plowed an acre, and does not propose to do so. He still resides at his old homestead, his sons are in the rebel army, and his lands are a barren waste. Two years ago he was the owner of several hundred slaves, reckoned his income by thousands of barrels, and was surrounded by every luxury that money could buy. One decrepit "mammy" is all that remains with him of all his "chattels," his broad acres are uncultivated, and, with illy-concealed repugnance, he takes the oath of allegiance, that he may be permitted to purchase a few of the necessaries of life from the Commissary, to enable him to eke out a miserable existence. Such is the effect of that fatal illusion called "State Rights." This man represents a whole class to be seen in every Slave State.

The last batch of rebel prisoners brought in are much better dressed than any soldiers of the rebel army that have been within our lines for a long time. They represent affairs in a very flourishing condition across the river, but I opine these fellows have been got up without regard to expense, to produce an effect, and counteract, if possible, the damaging effect of the numerous reports of the destitution existing in rebeldom. It is certain, however, that the wayward citizens of the rebel kingdom have recently spruced up a good deal. They have lately exposed to view some very fine camps, wagons, and other paraphernalia of an army, which have the appearance of being something a little better than they have heretofore been accustomed to use. They are getting to be very industrious again, also, and are daily engaged digging rifle-pits and throwing up earthworks at every conceivable point, for many miles up and down the river, on the opposite bank. This may also be all for effect.

The bright light seen across the river a few nights ago was caused by the burning of the Bernard mansion. This was an old structure, two miles below Fredericksburgh. In the grove of stately oaks on the premises Gen. FRANKLIN made his headquarters during the memorable battle of the 13th of December. Here, too, Gen. BAYARD was mortally wounded by a chance shot; and, stretched upon the grass under one of the large shade trees, Gen. BURNSIDE had his last interview with Gen. FRANKLIN on the night of the 14th of December.

The Governor of Delaware is on a short visit to these camps, to look after the interests of the troops from that State.

All is quiet in camp to-day. We are laboring under the depressing effects of a rain storm.

LATEST REPORTS FROM HEADQUARTERS.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Friday, April 24, 1863.

An almost incessant rain-storm has prevailed for the last thirty-six hours, unsettling the roads and swelling the streams to an unprecedented height. This is the third storm of the kind within the past week, and causes the roads to continue almost impassable.

A score of Paymasters are engaged in finishing the work of paying off the troops, and they will be nearly through by to-morrow night.

Everything is reported quiet from all parts of our lines.

THE PENINSULAR CAMPAIGN.

Testimony of Gen. Hooker.

The following testimony, given by Gen. HOOKER, before the Committee on the Conduct of the War, possesses a good deal of public interest and historical value:

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, March 11, 1863.

Major-Gen. JOSEPH HOOKER, sworn and examined by the Chairman:

Question—To what do you attribute the failure of the Peninsular campaign?

Answer—I do not hesitate to say that it is to be attributed to the want of generalship on the part of our commander.

Q.—Were you consulted upon the subject of the line of the Peninsula in preference to the one direct to Richmond?

A.—I never was consulted on the subject.

Q.—What was the condition of things at Yorktown when our troops first landed at the Peninsula as regards the strength of the place, and the relative strength of the opposing forces?

A.—I did not go down for some three weeks after Gen. McClellan went down. He went down with the army from Alexandria, and the return vessels stopped at Budd's Ferry, where I was, and took my division down. Gen. McClellan took down about 90,000, and when I joined him I took 11,000 down to him. I did not see the returns, but that was the understanding there. Franklin afterward joined with his division. At the time that Gen. McClellan landed with this large army, there was something between 8,000 and 15,000 at Yorktown. I have heard it estimated as low as 8,000 and as high as 15,000.

Q.—What course would you have advised at the time of the landing on the Peninsula under the circumstances?

A.—What I subsequently did will, I think, convey an answer to that question. I attacked with my single division, a line of works at Williamsburgh stronger than the line across the Peninsula at Yorktown. At Yorktown, long after I joined, I never could understand why I was required to send one-half of my number on duty, day and night to dig, so as to invest the place. I could only conclude that a siege had been determined upon somewhere in the programme, before ever having felt to see whether we had an enemy in front or not, and a great many others felt so too. From my examination of the works at Yorktown, and reaching away beyond the position that I occupied, I felt that their lines could be pierced without any considerable loss by the corps with which I was on duty, Heintzelman's corps. We could have gone right through and gone to the rear of the enemy. They would run the moment we got to their rear, and we could have picked up the prisoners. Right there at Yorktown the enemy had expended a great deal of labor, but I would have marched right through the redoubts, which were part of the cordon they had, and got on the road between Yorktown and Richmond, and thus compel the enemy to fight me on my own ground, and not have fought them on theirs.

Q.—Suppose that Gen. McClellan had thrown his army between Yorktown and Williamsburgh, with as much rapidity as he could, what would have probably been the effect?

A.—It would have resulted in the capture and destruction of the enemy's army.

Q.—Do you know any reason why that could not have been done?

A.—I do not.

Q.—You were there when the enemy retreated from Yorktown?

A.—I was within a mile and a half of there.

Q.—Will you state briefly and succinctly what took place upon their retreat?

A. The troops ordered in the first instance to pursue them, were some dragoons and some light batteries, under Gen. Stoneman. I received orders to support Gen. Stoneman, and left my camp between one and two o'clock in the afternoon for that purpose. I do not know what time Gen. Stoneman left. I followed in his rear. After I had proceeded out about five miles, I met Gov. Sprague, who informed me that Gen. Stoneman had fallen upon the rear of the enemy. I rode up to where Gen. Stoneman was, and found that he was held in check on the Yorktown road, about a mile and a half this (Yorktown) side of the cordon of the redoubts running across the Peninsula near Williamsburgh. I rode forward to ascertain how I could put in my infantry. Gen. Stoneman told me that the enemy were about a mile in his front, where they held some redoubts. It turned out afterward to be Fort Magruder. We were then where the enemy could throw shells over our heads from the fort.

After examining the ground, I heard that Smith's division had filed into the Yorktown road in advance of mine. I immediately returned and joined my division, and found that it had been halted in order to enable Smith's division to pass. We were detained there in that way between three and four hours. As soon as I ascertained this to be the case, I requested Gen. Heintzelman to allow me to take a different road to go up to the place occupied by the enemy. Gen. Smith's division then occupied almost the entire road between the point where they had filed into the Yorktown road and where Gen. Stoneman was, and there was no chance for me to get my division through by that road. I learned from a contraband that by going two or three miles further I could get up to the same position the enemy held, coming in on his right flank. To this the General assented. I started upon this route just about dark, and marched that night until eleven o'clock. By that time the roads had become so muddy—it was raining very hard—the mud was knee deep, and my men had become so fatigued that I halted right in the road, intending to renew the march at the dawn of day in the morning. We were then about two miles and a half from Fort Magruder. We resumed our march at daybreak, and about half-past six o'clock came up to the advanced outposts of the enemy, which was perhaps about half a mile from Fort Magruder. I could see from the position where I was, three or four redoubts on this line of the enemy's works. I could also see the line of telegraph poles on the Yorktown road which led to where Gen. Stoneman was. I ordered two regiments to advance as skirmishers on the work which commanded the Yorktown road, to skirmish up to the work. And I dispatched two regiments with instructions to break down any barrier and destroy any force that might be between me and the position that Gen. Stoneman occupied. As soon as my skirmishers had driven the enemy into Fort Magruder, I ordered two batteries forward, and opened on the work at once. The two regiments that had been sent to the Yorktown road, passed down the road, found the enemy on it, found no barrier, and reported to Gen. Hancock, who was about a mile and a quarter from Fort Magruder, that there was nothing to prevent the troops there advancing. Those regiments then returned. As early as nine o'clock in the day my skirmishers had advanced so near Fort Magruder, and there held their position, that they could not work their artillery. If a man showed his hand or head above the work he got a ball in it. When this was done, I sent word to the commanding officer on the Yorktown road that there was nothing to prevent his advancing his troops and taking his position alongside of mine. The place to where I sent was about a mile and a half from me. I supposed then that Gen. Heintzelman was there, but it turned out that he had left, and Gen. Sumner was in command with a large force, certainly not less than thirty thousand men. He could have advanced through the line of defences across the Peninsula, at Williamsburgh, without losing ten men. The enemy could not fire, for I had him in a vice. I wanted him to advance, and until three o'clock of that day, I expected he would advance, and march through the line held by the enemy, and go to picking up prisoners. During this time my own troops were engaged with not less than three or four times their number. Gen. Kearney, who was the last of all the army to leave Yorktown—except Porter's division, which was left to garrison Yorktown—was the first to come to my assistance. If Gen. Sumner had advanced, the rebellion would have been buried there. He did not advance at all.

Q. Where was Gen. McClellan all this time?

A.—At Yorktown. About nine o'clock, or thereabout, of the morning of the fight, Prince de Joinville, seeing that no reinforcements would be sent to me, started for Yorktown, and reached there in about an hour. It is reported to me, and I have no doubt that it is so, that he said to Gen. McClellan: "General, you have three old women in advance. Gen. Hooker is engaged heavily, and they will send him no reinforcements. It is necessary for you to go in advance." I think Gov. Sprague went down also to urge Gen. McClellan to come up. It was reported to me that Gen. McClellan left Yorktown between four and five o'clock in the afternoon. Lieut.-Col. Webb, now the inspector of the Fifth Corps, was present at the interview between Prince de Joinville and Gen. McClellan. Gen. McClellan showed a great indisposition to go forward, and only left, as I am told, between four and five o'clock.

Q.—You stood your ground?

A.—Yes, Sir. When Gen. Kearney came up he was my senior, but Gen. Heintzelman was under the impression at that time that I ranked Kearney, and he sent him up to report to me. When Gen. Kearney came up, as his brigades came up I put them in position. As soon as that was done, my own troops were withdrawn from the front, and collected together as far as practicable, Gen. Kearny holding the advance. Gen. Kearney then said to me: "I think I rank you." I replied: "Certainly, General, you do." He then said he would assume command, which was very proper. That night his lines of pickets held the advance. During the night the enemy evacuated Williamsburgh. I have since learned, from most reliable sources, that when the news of that battle reached Richmond, JEFFERSON DAVIS and Gov. LETCHER moved their families out of Richmond, removed the archives and their libraries, and every citizen who could command a vehicle had his goods piled on wagons, and prepared to abandon the city. They only returned (those who had left) when they found that the pursuit ceased—I almost say, was abandoned.

Q.—Is it your judgment that you could have gone into Richmond then?

A.—I think we could have moved right on, and got into Richmond by the second day after that battle, without another gun being fired.

Q.—What was done?

A.—We moved on in a manner I never did understand, losing time. If there was any necessity for that, I have never yet appreciated it. So far as the best information we have goes, the enemy had abandoned the idea of defending Richmond; and it was only when they saw the lassitude and inefficiency of our army, that they concluded to make a stand there.

Q.—Did you participate in the battle of Fair Oaks or Seven Pines?

A.—At the time that battle was fought, my entire division was stationed at what is called Oak Bottom, Swamp, about five or six miles from where the battle of Saturday, the 31st of May, was fought. About two o'clock of that day, I received orders to move one half of my division to the front, the other half to remain and hold the position they then occupied. I started, and upon reaching to within about a mile of what was called Savage's Station, the head of my column became impeded by the fugitives, trains of wagons, and fragments of batteries upon the road, and was prevented from advancing except with their bayonets and at a charge. From this cause, my column could make but little headway, and at the time I left them to ride to the front, I doubted if they could advance at all. When I reached there, the battle of Fair Oaks for that night was nearly over. About dark my troops came up. We bivouacked on the ground, the firing having been suspended. The next morning about 7 o'clock the firing was renewed. I started with the half of the division I had with me to meet the enemy. The enemy was firing on Sumner's command, which was occupying the railroad at that time. I made toward the heaviest fire, and came up in the rear of the enemy, and in half an hour after my men became engaged. The enemy was routed, throwing away their arms, clothing and haversacks, and broke for the woods in the direction of Richmond.

Q.—That was the second day of the fight?

A.—Yes, Sir; and that was the ending of the fight at that battle. A part of my troops occupied the camp that had been occupied the day before by Gen. Keyes' corps, and the ground that he had lost that day. On Monday, the day after the battle, I received orders—the directions were very vague—to make a reconnoissance in force through the camp and beyond it. I did so without any resistance, except a little picket firing, and proceeded to, perhaps, within three and a half or four miles of Richmond, on the Williamsburgh road. I was then recalled, and directed to establish my command on the ground that Casey's Division had occupied on the first day of the fight at Fair Oaks.

Q.—What portion of our army was engaged in that battle?

A—Keyes' Corps, a little more than one-half of Heintzelman's Corps, and a portion of Sumner's Corps. If any other troops were engaged, I do not know of it.

Q.—At what number would you estimate the actual force engaged on our side?

A.—I should think that, all told, there might have been twenty-five thousand men. The telegram directing me to return from my reconnoissance was in substance this: "Gen. Hooker will return from his brilliant reconnoissance; we cannot afford to lose his division." All I have to say is, that I had no expectation of being lost.

Q.—Suppose that the next day after this repulse of the enemy at Fair Oaks, Gen. McClellan had brought his whole army across the Chickahominy, and made a vigorous movement upon Richmond, in your judgment, as a military man, what would have been the effect of the movement?

A.—In answer to that I would say that at no time during the whole of that campaign did I feel that we could not go to Richmond. And I will say further, that after Gen. McClellan received his orders to abandon Harrison's Landing, I went to him voluntarily, and suggested that, with the force we had there, we could take Richmond, and pressed him to do it. So confident was I that we would be successful that I was willing to take the advance, and so assured him. This interview took place at 12 o'clock on Sunday. From that interview I returned to my camp, stopping on the way two hours. On reaching my camp, I found on my table an order from Gen. McClellan to prepare myself with three days' rations and the usual amount of ammunition, and to be ready to march at two o'clock on Monday. This order was communicated to the whole army, and I firmly believe that order meant Richmond. I had said to Gen. McClellan that if we were unsuccessful it would probably cost him his head, but that he might as well die for an old sheep as for a lamb. I told him that I knew of no better place to put an army than between Johnson—who was at that time in Pope's front—and the defences of Richmond; that the troops holding those defences would have to march to the succor of Jackson, and would be compelled to come out and give battle outside of their defences, where I knew we were always stronger than the enemy. But before the time arrived for executing that order it was countermanded, and hence the results of Pope's campaign.

THE FLORIDA

HALIFAX, Friday, April 24.

The steamer Delta, from St. Thomas on the 14th and Bermuda on the 19th instant, has arrived here.

A Danish brig landed at St. Croix on the 12th inst. the crews of the following vessels captured by the Florida:

Ship Star of Peace.

Five men of the crew of the ship Star of Peace shipped on board of the Florida.

Three boys were taken from the Lapwing.

The Colcord, (probably the Lapwing is meant,) in case they parted company, was directed to meet the Florida on the line in lon. 29°.

The bark Corilla, from New-York for Maranham, arrived at St. Thomas on the 13th inst. dismasted, having collided with an English ship, and had bulwarks, etc., carried away.

NEWS FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

Gen. Foster Moving Against the Rebels.

HEAVY FIRING HEARD.

The Siege of Little Washington Abandoned.

The United States steam transport Dudley Beech, Capt. SMITH, from Newbern on the 21st inst., in ballast, to the United States Quartermaster, arrived yesterday.

An officer on board reports that the rebels having marched up to within a short distance of Newbern, Gen. FOSTER instituted measures to attack them. An expedition, commanded by Gen. NAGLEE, consisting of five thousand men lately with Gen. HUNTER, proceeded, on the 16th inst., in the direction of the Trent River. When last heard from, on Friday morning, he was at a place called Deep Gull, but had then met only a few straggling enemies. On Friday afternoon, toward sundown, brisk cannonading was heard at Newbern, in a north-westerly direction, but it was not known what caused it. Rumors, however, indicated that Gen. HILL, with his rebel force, was somewhere in that direction, and it was thought that an engagement was going on. The cannonading lasted about an hour and a half, when it stopped.

By order of Gen. FOSTER, the families of Confederate soldiers were directed to leave Newbern by Thursday, the 23d inst. Gen. PALMER was instructed to have the order carried out, and on Sunday last he caused it to be read from every pulpit in the place.

The steam gunboats Miami, Hetzel, Lockwood and Shausheen were at Newbern on Monday last, ready to coöperate with the land forces, if necessary.

OUR NEWBERN CORRESPONDENCE.

NEWBERN, N. C., Sunday, April 19, 1863.

The rebels have abandoned their attack on Washington, N. C.—giving it up as a hopeless task. The fortitude and plucky perseverance with which Gen. FOSTER and his little band of 1,200 men held out successfully, and kept at bay for many days and nights 17,000 of the enemy, has endeared this popular leader still more strongly to his command.

Gen. HECKMAN's brigade has arrived here from Port Royal, and it is said that the rest of Gen. FOSTER's troops are so anxious to return to this department that they offer to reënlist for the war, if they can be allowed to return to the old North State and fight under their old commander.

An order was promulgated last evening by Gen. FOSTER, ordering all the rebel sympathizers and Government paupers outside of our lines.

Gen. NAGLEE and Staff arrived here from New-York last Tuesday, and left yesterday at the head of an expedition in pursuit of the enemy.

Rebel deserters are coming in daily. They confirm the reports of disaffection and starvation in the rebel army.

Frank D. Jerome, 8th Connecticut—killed.
John Sawyer, 8th Connecticut—chest.
Lieut. John T. Bidwell, 8th Conn.—hip, flesh.
Wm. R. Post, 8th Connecticut—arm and leg.

It is estimated that the rebel loss is at least eight to our one in the late attack on Suffolk and the Nansemond River. The battery captured from the rebels on the 20th inst. has been removed to a place of safety, and can be turned upon the enemy to good advantage when required.

The steamship S. R. Spaulding, Commander HOWES, arrived this afternoon from Newbern, N. C. She reports that all is quiet in that Department, and confirms the previous report that the enemy have all left, and also reports that Gen. FOSTER has returned again to Newbern, having taken upward of fifty prisoners.

LITERATURE OF APRIL.

CAMPAIGNS OF 1862 AND 1863, ILLUSTRATING THE PRINCIPLES OF STRATEGY. By EMIL SCHALK, Author of "Summary of the Art of War." 1 vol. 12mo. Philadelphia: J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co.

Speaking with the diffidence becoming a non-professional critic on military affairs, we are disposed to regard this work as one of the most important on the science of war, considered with reference to our situation, and present and future condition, that the existing rebellion has called forth. The object of the writer is to examine the operations of the last two years by the great principles of war, "which cannot be violated with impunity," and to test, by a military examination of those campaigns, how far and in what manner they confirm those maxims which, like similar truths or morals, too often receive rather a general mental assent, than implicit submission to their dictates. The author possesses many qualifications for his task. His acquaintance with military history is very extensive; he claims no exclusive source of information, and laments the want of more accurate maps and official documents necessary for a strictly scientific judgment. There is no trace of personal feeling or hero-worship in the book. In the first division the principles of strategy concurred in by all the great masters of the art are expounded and illustrated to the comprehension of any non-technical reader. The second portion is a detailed examination of the geography of the Southern Confederacy; the scene of action for reducing to practice the principles already discussed. Their special application to the theatre of war then follows. The work continues with showing that the results of last year's campaign agrees with the conclusions to be drawn from the admitted data, and winds up with suggestions for the operations of 1863. Good maps illustrate the author's positions, and enable the reader to comprehend them thoroughly. A view of the great physical features of the country show that three great zones, or theatres of war, are distinctly marked out by natural lines of separation on the "debateable land" of the North and South. The first, or left zone, extends from the seaboard, to the Alleghanies and the Blue Ridge; the right zone, comprising the country west of the Mississippi; and the central, interposes between the two others, extending north and south from the Ohio to the Gulf of Mexico. From natural causes these zones require each distinct military organizations—armies, bases of operation, supplies, &c. In importance, they diminish toward the West—the first, or Eastern division, being incomparably the most serious point either of attack or defence, and the main field for decisive measures. While the West and the Central have no one essential strategic position, the reverse is the case in the East. Here we find a chain of mountains like a wedge driven from the North right into the very heart of the theatre of war—it is the only elevated front of it—and dominates it in all directions, like the bulwark or citadel of a fortress, which, in this case, may represent the whole South. Occupy the fortress, but leave the citadel untouched, and it will be the same as if nothing had been taken. In these mountains the Southern armies can rally, and maintaining here a central position, with the facility of debouching at any place, they can throw themselves with their whole force on all the surrounding fragments of our armies and beat them in detail. The possession of the mountain region is, therefore, a necessity for the holding not only of the left zone, but also of the whole theatre of the war. This once secured, we hold the key of the whole Southern Confederacy. Our armies are then in the central position and able to throw themselves on the fragments of the Southern armies with their united forces." Instead of the prosecution of a grand central plan like this, the author finds in the discussion of last year's campaigns a failure to understand the great principles of wars of invasion. A glance at the map is sufficient to show the number of places, isolated from each other, occupied by Union troops, where they are practically locked up in large bodies and debarred from exercising any influence in the general result. The invading armies should not care for towns or for occupation; it should have but one object—the finding and annihilating of the enemy's armies. In a word, instead of one grand war and plan of operations, half-a-dozen small wars or petty plans were substituted. It must be remarked that the defence admirably profited by the rude lesson it received at Fort Donelson, and from that moment its action became more and more correct, and in accordance with the rules to concentrate the main force always on the decisive point, and to act on interior lines. The following passage will show the originality of M. SCHALK's views: "The facilities offered by the navy by sea and river gunboats, had the most deteriorating effect on the operations. It was almost taken for granted that without them operations were impossible, and with them irresistible. The consequence of this gunboat mania was and is still, that the best lines of communications, but the least decisive line of operation, were invariably chosen. The large rivers on the seacoast attracted the Union Generals like magnets. If ever a circumstance conducts them into the interior of the country, immediately these rivers and the thought of safety and gunboats draw them back. As far as gunboats are concerned, they ought to play a very secondary part, merely to serve as a kind of diversion, but never to intrust large operations to, or confide to their guns the safety of a large army." Writing in January of the present year, the author reviews the probable occurrences of the coming campaign, and it is creditable to his foresight that a rebel attack on Gen. FOSTER and the army at Newbern, is pointed out as the very first step likely to be taken. He thinks that the rebels cannot afford to make any mistakes, but if they adhere to a correct defence and are less exhausted than is reported, the plan of invasion indicated by the position of the Union armies (in January) is not favorable to decisive results.

AFRICAN HUNTING, FROM NATAL TO THE ZAMBESI, INCLUDING LAKE NGAMI, THE KALAHIRI DESERT, &c., from 1852 to 1862. By WILLIAM CHARLES BALDWIN. 1 vol., 12mo. New-York: HARPER & BROTHERS.

In this compact volume Messrs. HARPERS have reproduced for us, at a moderate price, the splendid English royal octavo, which narrates Mr. BALDWIN's feats, and by means of duplicate plates are enabled to furnish the whole of the spirited illustrations of the London edition. The book is emphatically a good one, of a kind that will never fail to meet with readers. The writer tells us how "the innate love of sport, dogs and horses," was too strong in him to be quenched by a brief experience in a merchant's office, how it was heightened by running wild for a few years on a West Highland Farm of thirteen miles square, and finally how, when it became necessary to choose a career in the world, the publication of GORDON CUMMINGS' book sent him off at once to Natal, in West Africa. His first sporting experience in that colony was unpropitious. Three weeks after his arrival he joined a party to shoot sea cows, or hippopotami, from whence, out of nine hunters, full of vigor and hope, only himself and one friend returned, brought back in wagons more dead than alive with fever. The lesson was too severe to be entirely lost. For two years Mr. BALDWIN tried hard to be a steady respectable man of business, and met with great success in dealing in cattle with the Kaffirs, but life became daily more irksome, horrid, "weary, solitary and monotonous." The wilderness was nigh with its untold wealth of wild game, and occasional trips in the Zulu country gradually lengthened and became more frequent, till everything was abandoned for the gratification of an overmastering passion. It is from an expansion of the notes written on these excursions that the work before us is composed. They were jotted down in the desert, when ink was absent, "in tea, mixed with gunpowder in a bullet-mold," and by other similar makeshifts, happily unfavorable to fine writing. Mr. BALDWIN, however, tells his story plainly and well, without affectation, and we finish it with much respect for his adventurous spirit and powers of endurance. His wanderings led him over more than 2,000 miles of country, hitherto unexplored, in his last trip alone, and brought him to the centre of the African Continent, and to the famous Falls of the Zambesi, which he was the second white man to visit after their discoverer Dr. LIVINGSTON, whom he afterward met in the neighborhood. Mr. BALDWIN considers that the Doctor did scanty justice to these falls, through fear of exaggeration. He estimates the river to be at the fall one mile in width, and the rocky gorge into which it is precipitated is several hundred feet in perpendicular height. The writer has eyes for other objects than elephants, giraffes and "such large deer;" his sketches of savage life are graphic and amusing, and convey a more pleasant impression than those of many travelers. We have said little on the sporting adventures, but when the list of the game bagged in the author's last expedition counts up "61 elephants, 23 rhinoceroses, 4 lions, 11 giraffes," and other animals in proportion, the store of incident involved in their capture may be easily imagined.

ON OUR KNOWLEDGE OF THE CAUSES OF THE PHENOMENA OF EXTERNAL NATURE. By Professor HUXLEY, F. R. S.

This unpretending volume contains six lectures delivered before an association of working men, and printed from the short-hand notes of the reporter. Prof. HUXLEY is already well known as a worker in the foremost ranks of scientific inquiry, but it is certain these Lectures will do much to extend his reputation in a less restricted field. Dealing as they do with some of the highest themes of human contemplation, they are models of precision and clearness, both as statements of facts and the inferences to be deduced from them. As a whole, they form a powerful and irresistible plea for simplicity of design and structure in organic nature, showing the prevalence and universal adaptation of general laws, the absolute identity of materials composing the vegetable and animal world, and the ceaseless and beautiful round of permutation by which a constant trasference of these materials is effected. These views, so eloquently set forth, however simple they may seem when once comprehended, are among the highest achievements of modern science. Through them only can the grandeur and simplicity of creation be really felt, on a scale commensurate with the plan of its great Author. Among the subjects enlarged on are the past condition of organic nature; life, and all we can learn of its origin and perpetuation; the laws of hereditary transmission and variation, and their bearing on the question of the original diversity and permanence of species, as brought forward in Mr. DARWIN's well-known book. With the general views of this writer, Prof. HUXLEY expresses his concurrence; that is, when regarded not as matters of belief, but as an hypothesis, by which admitted facts in nature may be arranged and elucidated. The observations in Lecture III. ("Methods of Discovery") on hypothesis, and the part it performs in philosophical investigation, are among the most valuable portions of the work, and may serve to reassure those who are continually thrown off their mental balance by the news of some startling hypothesis at variance with preconceived notions.

—A novel edition is just being made to the existing large library (that might be collected) of books on the War and present Rebellion. It is a Southside view of the subject, a history of "The First Year of the War," by E. A. POLLARD, editor of the Richmond Examiner, and B. M. DEWITT, associate editor of the Richmond Enquirer. A single copy of the original edition, published at Richmond, by Messrs. WEST & JOHNSON, has "run the the blockade," and is in the possession of Mr. C. B. RICHARDSON, 264 Canal-street, who proposes to reprint it in an octavo volume of 350 pages, at the price of $1 50. So much curiosity has been awakened by the announcement of the work, which is said to be written with fairness and ability, that a large edition is already subscribed for.

While on this topic, we are glad to announce that the bibliography of the rebellion has been made a special object of study by a gentleman most competent to the due performance of the task, Mr. S. HASTINGS GRANT, of the New-York Mercantile Library. His object is to form a complete record of all the books and pamphlets that issue from the press on this engrossing theme—most of them transitory and evanescent, from the nature of the circumstances of their publication, and so doomed to perish, though often of the utmost importance to the future historian. Some idea of the prolificness of the press may be formed by learning that Mr. GRANT has already collected three thousand titles of works of this class. It is only by coöperation that anything like completeness is attained in an undertaking of this kind, and any communication of pamphlets, books, or their names, dates, authors, &c., will be gladly received. It is proposed finally to print a limited edition of 150 copies of this bibliography, for which subscribers' names are already received.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE BROADWAY RAILROAD.

Work Commenced by the Harlem Company and by the George Law Company.

MORE ABOUT THE INJUNCTION.

On Thursday, the work of laying the track for the Broadway Railroad was commenced at three different points, viz.; Union-square, at the corner of Fifteenth-street, and near the Battery. But a short distance of the track was laid, however, in consequence of the injunction issued by the Supreme Court. A gang of men employed by the opposition or George Law Company also commenced laying a track, for the purpose of obtaining the right of way. The points selected were the junction of Fourteenth-street and Broadway, just above the point where the Harlem track had been laid; and also a place below the Harlem track, and near the Battery new tracks were laid, so that, if the Harlem track that had been commenced was extended, it would compel the removal of the bars that were laid in its line. The bars or rails are about ten feet in length, and are temporarily fastened in the pavement—the work having been performed at each end in not more than twenty minutes time. The rails laid by the Harlem Company are permanent, and the line it proposes to occupy is obstructed by the temporary railway of the opposition Company. An injunction prevents any further operations. Considerable excitement was occasioned yesterday around the City Hall, from information received that copies of the injunction would be served on the members of the Common Council. The following order, which was issued by Judge BARBOUR at his house, upon the application of the grantees of the Broadway Railroad bill, was served by Deputy Sheriff RAY yesterday, on the Mayor, Mr. VALENTINE, Clerk of the Common Council; Mr. ALLEN CAMPBELL, President of the Harlem Railroad Company; J. C. BUCKHOUT, Engineer of the Road; Deputy Street Commissioner TWEED, and some of the officers of the Croton Aqueduct Board:

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

The New-York Consolidated Stage Company vs. The Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York, and the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company.—It appearing from the complaint in this action, and from the affidavit of JESSE A. MARSHALL and JAMES MURPHY, that sufficient grounds exist therefor, I do hereby order that the defendants, the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York, and all persons acting under them, and each of them, do refrain and desist from giving and granting unto the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company, mentioned and referred to in the said complaint, the right to lay or construct a railroad track or tracks on any part thereof, in the streets or avenues, or any or either of them, in the City of New-York, or from authorizing in any way or manner the said the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company to lay a double track or railway in the Fourth-avenue, Union-square, Broadway, Fulton-street and Whitehall-street, or in any or either of them; or any railway or railroad track whatever in said streets or either of them, or from breaking and removing the pavement thereof, or from in any manner obstructing the said streets preparatory to, or for the purpose of laying or establishing any railroad track or railway therein.

And I do further order that the said defendants, the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company, their attorney or attorneys, agents, employes, workmen and servants, or either or any of them, be and they hereby are enjoined and restrained from laying or constructing any railroad track or tracks in the said Fourth-avenue, Union-square, Broadway, Whitehall and Fulton streets, or in any or either of them, or in any or either of the streets mentioned and referred to in the resolution or ordinance mentioned in the complaint herein, or in any part or parts of the said streets, or in any or either of them preparatory to or for the purpose of establishing any railroad track or tracks or railway therein, or from in any manner disturbing or interfering with the carriageway of said streets or interrupting the travel thereon.

Dated NEW-YORK, April 23, 1863.

JOHN N. BARBOUR,
Justice of the City of New-York.

Naval.

PROGRESS OF THE MEN-OF-WAR BUILDING HERE.

A visit to the Government ship-yards in this vicinity enables one to form some idea of the magnitude of our naval operations. The tremendous iron frigates Puritan and Dictator, the huge ram Dunderberg; the iron-clads Miantanomah and Onondaga; the wooden vessels Metacomet, Mendota, Shamrock, Chenango, Mackinaw, Peoria, Nyack, Maumee; and, in Jersey, the iron-clads Manhattan, Mahopac, and Tecumseh, are all in various stages of progress. The following brief account of their condition embraces all that is necessary to know:

The Puritan and Dictator are the two Ericsson ocean iron-clads, each being over 310 feet long, and having the largest cylinders attached to their engines ever built for a man-of-war, thus rendering it probable that they will be the fastest vessels of their kind in the world. Both are now in about the same state, the rigs of the hulls being all up, and a portion of the inner skin of armor going on. The cross inside beams on the bottom are being put in their places. Every bolt fastening the interior armor to the frame of the hull is put in hot, and hammered home in the same manner. The present appearance of the vessels is little different from that of the skeleton of an ordinary first-rate in frame, except that the beams are iron instead of wood. The plates put on these vessels are preparing rapidly, so that they may probably be completed this time next year.

The Onondaga, Mr. GEORGE QUINTARD's vessel, is nearly finished, and will be launched next week. She is almost exclusively iron, has her plates put on in solid thicknesses, like the Roanoke, but has no wooden backing under them. The overhang which seems to be an objectionable feature in the Monitor, is dispensed with in this vessel. She has turrets like the Ericsson batteries, and will be armed on the same general plan. She is nearly 400 tons heavier than the latter, although a stranger might mistake her for one of them as she looks now on the stocks.

The iron-clads Tecumseh, Manhattan and Mahopac, building in Jersey, all belong to the first batch of light draft vessels ordered, after the completion of the nine Monitors. They are all well advanced, have armor covering them, and will be completed by July. Each has one turret, pierced for two guns, which may be of 11 or 15-inch bore, as the Department decides. The Messrs. SECOR are building them, Mr. GEORGE BIRKBECK superintending their construction. The Comanche is also building here, but any mention of her in detail is prohibited, for good reasons. Capt. PERINE and the SECORS are preparing to build still smaller vessels.

The great ram Dunderberg, building by Mr. WEBB, has now her first wooden story on, and her ram shaped. She will be built altogether of wood, the mail or armor going on over it. She will have turrets. The ram is prolonged over 30 feet from the hull proper, and rising upward from the keel about half the distance from the water line, is there rounded, presenting a blunt end, in shape like the profile of an axe-edge. The bow, for a period of 50 feet from its extreme end, will be a solid mass of wood. The frames of the hull are no less than 12 inches thick. She is nearly 380 feet long, 68 feet wide, 32 feet deep, and will be of heavier burden than any other iron-clad. She cannot be completed for at least two years to come

The Miantanomah will be the first regular navy built iron-clad. She is now nearly finished, and embraces no new features—resembling the Ericsson batteries in all her chief features. She is about 200 feet long, and over 1,000 tons burthen. It is said she will be floated out of the ship house on the 1st of May.

All the wooden vessels named are afloat, except the Maumee, Nyack and Peoria—the two latter having been commenced last week. The Chenango, and others, are waiting at the different machine shops for their engines, and others have arrived here from other cities for a like purpose. Mr. STACK, Mr. WESTERVELT, and some other shipbuilders, have just commenced small steamers for the revenue, which will be finished in a few months.

THE BOABD OF ENGINEERS.

The Board of Examiners of Naval Engineers, now in session at the Philadelphia Navy-yard, have recommended the following promotions: First Assistant Engineer Wm. Roberts, to be a Chief Engineer; Third Assistant Engineers Fred. G. McKean, C. F. Mayer, Samuel R. Brooks, Augustus H. Able, John D. Van Buren, D. R. McCartney, Wilber F. Fost, Elisha Harsen, J. J. McK. Daniels, Ed. W. Keohl, and Franklin C. Brindle, to be Second Assistant Engineers; Second Assistant Engineer Henry Snyder, to be First Assistant Engineer. ARRIVAL OF THE GUNBOAT MEMPHIS.

Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, the U. S. gunboat Memphis reached the Philadelphia Navy-yard. The Memphis left Port Royal on Tuesday last. This vessel is one of the finest of her class in the navy. She was captured about a year ago while attempting to run the blockade. At this post she was converted into a gunboat, and left here in October last, and has been on blockading duty off Charleston ever since. Previous to the attack on Charleston, the Memphis, while engaged in towing one of the Monitors over the bar, came into collision with the Keokuk, and was so injured in the bow as to require repairs for which she has been sent to Philadelphia.

THE IRON-CLAD MONITOR LEHIGH.

This iron-clad Monitor is again in the hands of the machinists at Philadelphia to have some alterations made which the recent fight at Charleston shows to be necessary.

The Great Billiard Match.

KAVANAGH AGAINST GOLDTHWAITE.

We republish from our second edition of yesterday the following comprehensive and detailed report of the great billiard match between Mr. GOLDTHWAITE, of Boston, and Mr. KAVANAGH, of this City. The intense interest occasioned in sporting circles, and in many a private parlor, by this match, indicates very clearly that public confidence in the good effects of the game is on the increase, and that one more of the healthful recreations of life is removed from the exclusive possession of the "doers of evil," and brought within the pale of honorable custom and social recognition:

In the great billiard match for the championship and $1,000, Thursday night, at Irving Hall, at the four-ball carom game, DUDLEY KAVANAGH beat WILLIAM GOLDTHWAITE 218 points. The largest run was made by GOLDTHWAITE—130 points; KAVANAGH's largest run was 125 points. The match was 1,500 points up, on a Phelan & Collender pocket-table, and lasted five hours and a half, concluding at 1½ A. M.

The hall was admirably fitted up for the occasion under the direction of Mr. LAFAYETTE HARRISON, its proprietor, who, from long experience, knew just what was wanted. The seats were ranged in tiers, with the table in the centre, and ample accommodations for the Press. Every one of the audience of 1,200 could obtain a splendid view of the game. Among the celebrities present were Messrs. Phelan, O'Conor, Bird, Seereiter, George Wilkes, Aldermen Tuomey and Walsh, Doesticks, and a host of well-known amateurs of the cue and balls—all of whom staid until the conclusion of the game.

Precisely at the appointed hour the contestants entered the room, accompanied by their immediate friends, and without ado, the sport commenced, Mr. PHELAN announcing that Mr. KAVANAGH had chosen Mr. BIRD as his referee, Mr. GOLDTHWAITE had chosen Mr. O'CONOR, and himself (Mr. PHELAN,) had been selected umpire. JOHN HENRY acted as marker. Both the players seemed cool and confident. They banked for the first shot, and GOLDTHWAITE got the lead, and straightway pushed his ball into a pocket for "safety." The first few shots were unimportant, and made small counts. On the fourth shot, however, DUDLEY got the balls together and made a neat run of 34, leaving his opponent in the pocket, and all the remaining balls in the string. This was, indeed, a peculiarity of his play throughout the match, as he seldom left GOLDTHWAITE much capital to begin on. Three more unimportant shots, and DUDLEY got another run of 82 by splendid play, leaving the balls "safe" as usual. Three more similar unimportant shots, and DUDLEY took another neat run of 39. GOLDTHWAITE up to his 11th shot had not counted over 3 at once, but now made a fine run of 43. At the end of 30 minutes the game stood, KAVANAGH 187, GOLDTHWAITE 54, and KAVANAGH steadily gaining, making a fine run of 44 on his 19th shot, and another run of 57 on his 22d shot, and 29 on his 29th shot. GOLDTHWAITE's highest count, since his run of 43, had been 35, and most of his counts had been small, but, on the 32d shot, he delighted his friends with a splendid run of 66, made with boldness and skill. Indeed, his whole game seemed much more open and scientific—so far as making shots was concerned—than DUDLEY's, but DUDLEY uniformly displayed more skill, or care, in leaving the balls safe. DUDLEY played as if he meant to win. He was cautious, careful, risking nothing, less anxious to make a count, than to avoid leaving his opponent a chance to make. GOLDTHWAITE, on the contrary, seemed to play to count every time when there was the slightest chance, and, judging by the applause, seemed to have the decided preference in the admiration of the audience. Indeed, throughout the exciting game the feelings of the spectators were wrought up to the extreme, and, in spite of the frequent cautions from the umpire that the jarring on the spring floor disarranged the table and annoyed the players, continually burst forth in hearty plaudits. Human nature couldn't resist the temptation. So great was the jar, that at 9 P. M. playing had to be suspended in order to afford time for leveling the table—the game standing at this time KAVANAGH 367, GOLDTHWAITE 159, or KAVANAGH 208 points ahead. There was, of course, a general murmur, but the knowing ones said, "Billiards is mighty oncertain." To be sure, the odds had all been on DUDLEY, but the game was by no means ended, and Yankees like GOLDTHWAITE were "mighty oncertain," too. The game went on for the next hour pretty much as before, DUDLEY keeping ahead, playing safe, and GOLDTHWAITE as cool and daring as ever. At 10 o'clock the game stood: KANANAGH, 522, and GOLDTHWAITE, 335; when at 10.20 o'clock DUDLEY made a splendid run of 125, thus leading GOLDTHWAITE by 333 points—everybody thought it was surely up with "the boy." But the next twenty shots changed the aspect of things greatly; DUDLEY kept making misses and small counts, while GOLDTHWAITE steadily gained, on counts varying from 5 to 35; making 130—the largest run in the game on his 67th shot. DUDLEY and his friends looked dispirited, particularly when on the 69th shot, GOLDTHWAITE ran 107, catching up to DUDLEY and going beyond him, so that at 11.25 P. M., after three hours and a half's playing, GOLDTHWAITE was 38 ahead, which he increased to over 100 ahead before the 80th shot, by runs of 100 and 52. But 12.15 P. M. told a different tale—DUDLEY had awakened and made runs of 111, 43, 95, 74, 31 and 34—so that the game stood. KAVANAGH, 1,312; GOLDTHWAITE, 1,123, after four hours and a half playing. Everybody saw that it was now "all day" with the Boston boy, and the best he could do was to get as near the victor as possible. He maintained remarkable equanimity, and played with coolness, skill, and daring—almost too much daring, for, in the course of the game he frequently left DUDLEY a splendid chance to count, while DUDLEY very rarely, indeed, returned the compliment. At least a dozen times in the course of the game, GOLDTHWAITE was obliged to have recourse to the "mace" from DUDLEY's "safe" leavings, but he did not make a single count with it. DUDLEY, on the contrary, made one splendid count by the use of the mace which brought down the house. At ten minutes past one, DUDLEY turned his last hundred, his last run of 67 carrying him to within 13 points of victory. The boy kept up his courage, however, in spite of the now obvious certainty of defeat, making a run of over 60 with as much ease, grace and boldness as if he was playing alone. He was heartily applauded. DUDLEY then ran out the game, amid the most uproarious applause, beating his opponent 218 points, and ending one of the most interesting billiard contests on record.

Mr. CHRIS. O'CONNOR, in the midst of the tumultuous congratulations of KAVANAGH's friends, offered to back GOLDTHWAITE again for a $1,000 against KAVANAGH, and a gentleman present was understood to take him up.

Vanity Fair Alive Again.

The publisher of Vanity Fair, Mr. LOUIS H. STEPHENS, announces the resumption of the issue of that very popular comical hebdomidal upon this date. It opens with a rich and interesting number, the frontispiece of which is an admirable take-off of "Lord LYONS in full regalia, as he appeared on the occasion of his being chosen Chief Mediator of the Copperhead or K. G. C. tribe of Indians." Another capital hit at the Copperheads is found on the forty-third page, and witticisms turn up on every sheet.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

A FATAL ACCIDENT.—Coroner RANNEY held an inquest yesterday upon the body of EDWARD O'NEIL, who was killed by being run over by a train of the Harlem Railroad, near One Hundred and Thirty-first-street. The deceased was attempting to draw the pin which connected the locomotive with the tender, when, by some means, he slipped and fell upon the track. The train passed over him, and he was crushed to death almost instantly. The deceased was a native of Ireland, aged 26 years.

LAW REPORTS.

Undervaluation.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

Before Judge Betts.

The United States vs. Two cases of Wooden Smoking-pipes.—This action was tried with another one involving the same questions. They were brought to forfeit the goods for alleged fraudulent undervaluation. The goods were imported in December, 1861, from Paris. On appraisement at the Custom-house here their value was advanced about twenty-five per cent., and thereupon these actions were brought to forfeit them. They were valued at about $1,200.

The claimant, Oscar Lear, gave evidence to show that he had invoiced them at the price which he had actually bought them at. It also appeared that he had bought them in job lots all over Europe, thus saving commissions, &c., and that the market value in Paris, embracing these commissions, &c., was higher than the invoice price.

The question of undervaluation with intent to evade the payment of duty was left to the jury. They found a verdict in favor of the United States, condemning the goods, but recommended that the forfeiture should be remitted by the Secretary of the Treasury.

For the United States, Mr. Smith and Mr. Allen; for claimant, Mr. Ridgway.

The Copartnership Case of Moffat vs. Moffat.

SUPERIOR COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Before Justices Robertson and Monell.

John Moffat vs. Julia A. Moffat, widow of the late Wm. B. Moffat et al.—This case was stated briefly in the TIMES of yesterday. The plaintiff now wishes it stated that the suit was not in respect to his interest in the manufacture of the pills alone, but also in relation to his partnership interest in the entire estate of the concern, real and personal, and that the question of his right to "make" the pills has not been adjudicated in any Court; also, that the case decided now will be taken to the Court of Appeals for final determination.

A Chambermaid's Honesty Vindicated.

MARINE COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Judge McCarthy.

Mary Sullivan vs. Barrows and Wife.—This was an action to recover of the defendants for an alleged false imprisonment of the plaintiff. The plaintiff was a chambermaid at the Lafarge House, in Broadway, in February last, and the defendants were boarding there at the time. On the night of the 22d of February, the defendants induced the plaintiff, as alleged, to enter their rooms, whereupon they locked and bolted the doors upon her, and kept her locked up from 7 to 10½ P. M., accusing her of stealing Mrs. Barrows' diamond ring, which she alleged she had left upon a table before going to dinner, and that when she returned the ring was missing. The defendants, as alleged, threatened to send for an officer and have the plaintiff taken into custody unless she produced the ring within twenty minutes. This she was unable to do, and afterward Mrs. Barrows visited some friends who were stopping in the same house, and where she had been during the day, and there found her ring—she having left it when there. This action was instigated to recover $500 damages for the alleged false imprisonment. The proprietor and the housekeeper of the hotel were examined on behalf of the plaintiff. The defendant averred that he could not state whether the doors were bolted or not. The defence was that the plaintiff was not entitled to a verdict, as there was no malice shown.

The jury gave the plaintiff a verdict for $400.

J. M. Harrington and A. H. Reavey for plaintiff; Mr. Tibbets for defendant.

Physics and Feuds—Aid Dispensed With, and the Consequences.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Justice White.

Milton Bradley vs. Charles F. Taylor.—The plaintiff claimed to have been employed by the defendant as assistant in the practice of medicine, and that the contract was that either party should have three months' notice of a desire on the part of the other to terminate the agreement. It was then alleged that the defendant abruptly discharged the plaintiff without notice. The action was to recover for services for the three months which it was claimed should have been covered by the notice.

The defence was that the plaintiff conducted himself in an insulting and abusive manner toward the defendant, and that he wrote an abusive letter to the defendant—that defendant told plaintiff to retract his language or he would discharge him; that thereupon the plaintiff refused to withdraw his language, and voluntarily left the defendant's employ.

The jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $150. Case stated in the TIMES of yesterday.

SURROGATE'S COURT.

Before Surrogate Tucker.

Admitted to Probate—The wills of Joseph T. Hoyer, Moy McGlaine, Wm. Browning, John W. Ketchum, James Rait, Geo. Dickinson, Benjamin Sherwood and Catharine Gianker, were now admitted to probate.

Decisions.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Justice Bosworth.

Smith, Jr., vs. Roosevelt.—This is a proper case for making a deposit of the $1,000, and substituting Mrs. Gorl as defendant; the $10 costs may be paid out of the fund if the plaintiff so desires, and the order be modified as this change may render just, to be arranged on settling the order hereon.

Sidell vs. Marshal.—Complaint set aside, as not authorized by the summons, with $7 costs, with liberty, on paying such costs, to serve a new complaint, or amend the summons within ten days.

FRIDAY, April 24—P. M.

The price of Gold Coin was 1½@2 ⅌ cent. higher to-day than the closing quotation on Thursday afternoon. The sales at both sessions of the Regular Board ranged between 152@151½ ⅌ cent. Intermediate sales were made on the Street as low as 150⅜@½ ⅌ cent., and as high as 151⅞ ⅌ cent. The price of Exchange on London, on the actual sales for the mail to-morrow, was 165@166 ⅌ cent., which is again relatively lower than the price of Gold. A fair business was done at the quotation. The price of Money continues cheap, and the supply easy to the Brokers at 4@5 ⅌ cent. on first-class collateral, and 5@6 ⅌ cent. on Railway and other Shares actively speculated in on the Stock Exchange. The Treasury received to-day about $2,000,000, of which $1,050,000 on Deposit at 5 ⅌ cent.; $750,000 for conversion into the New Loan, and $200,000 for Customs. The Secretary was again at the office to-day, but leaves town, it is understood, to-morrow afternoon. His presence has given rise to various rumors of a negotiation with the Banks on the interest-bearing Treasury Notes authorized by the recent Loan bill; but, as these notes have not yet been printed, nor the rate of interest determined upon, we deem these rumors at least premature. Any suggestions which may be made about advancing Money upon these Notes when they are ready we feel quite sure must be volunteered by the Bank gentlemen themselves, as it is no part of the present business of the Secretary in this City to borrow Money.

As foreseen a day or two ago, the extraordinary movement in Harlem stock has stimulated a fresh spirit of speculation for the general rise on the Stock Exchange. The business to-day was large, and the buoyancy in prices extended over nearly the entire Share list. The Western Shares were especially animated this afternoon, while the New-York Roads took the lead at the early Board. Chicago and Rock Island, which was dull early in the week, at 89½@¾ ⅌ cent., started up yesterday and to-day, and advanced to 92¾ ⅌ cent. The Cleveland and Toledo shares sold as high as 101½ ⅌ cent., ex-dividend. There were large orders for both these Stocks at the Second Board, and also for Cleveland and Pittsburgh at 75 ⅌ cent., and Michigan Southern at 61½ ⅌ cent. New-York Central in demand at a rise of 3 ⅌ cent. since Tuesday, and Erie sold largely at 79¾@80 in the forenoon, and 80½ at the Second Board. The Government Stocks continue in demand, and there is a partial revival in Missouri 6 ⅌ cents.

The excitement was less extreme in Harlem to-day, although the advance is supported with marked stubbornness, between 69@70 ⅌ cent. on the printed sales at the Regular Board. The extreme rise in Hudson River Shares was to 117 ⅌ cent., from which the price returned to about the quotation of last night.

At 4 o'clock the New-York and Western Stocks continued firm, with the exception of Harlem, the latest sales of which were at a concession of 2 ⅌ cent. The demand for Gold was dull, and 151½ ⅌ cent. the bid after the sales at the Public Board.

Barley is very quiet at $1 45@$1 60 ⅌ bushel. The business in Breadstuffs in the Milwaukee market, week ending April 22, Messrs. GEO. I. JONES & Co. notice thus: "Flour—The market is dull and inactive, and prices are pretty much nominal. Freight to New-York by Lake and canal, $1 05; by Lake and rail, $1 15. Stock in store about 120,000 bbls. Receipts for week, 7,113 bbls., against 5,190 bbls. same week last year. Through contracts to New-York, by Lake and canal, are offered at 25c. The weather has been very favorable for farming operations, and the Spring sowing in this State is nearly finished. Receipts for the week have averaged 24,000 bushels per day, against an average of 10,000 bushels for corresponding days last year. Receipts for week 145,805 bushels, against 59,012 bushels same time last year. Shipments since opening navigation 334,531 bushels, and will be 100,000 bushels more by night, as a number of vessels are loading.

GUNNY BAGS AND BAGGING—Have been quiet and depressed.

HAY—North River is in fair request, at 80c.@$1 ⅌ 100 ℔s.

HOPS—New have been in slack demand to-day at, according to quality, from 16c.@24c. ⅌ ℔.

OILS—A moderate business has been transacted in the principal kinds at irregular prices, including Fish Oils at previous rates; Linseed at $1 54@$1 56; No. 1 Lard Oil at 80c.@87½c.; Petroleum at 22½c.@23c. for Crude, and 42½c.@47½c. (the latter an extreme rate) for Refined, ⅌ gallon. The Oil City Register, in its review of the Oil trade for last week, says: "The market has been somewhat excited since our last report. Oil has advanced from our previous quotations to $1 75, and we hear of one sale, made this week at the Phillips Well, Tarr Farm, of 1,000 bbls. of Oil at $2 ⅌ bbl. Producers here are refusing to contract for delivery at Pittsburgh at 8c. We give as the ruling quotation $1 75 ⅌ bbl. at the wells. But producers are refusing to sell at less than $2, and are firm even at that figure. The stock on hand, both here and at the wells, is light. We estimate the total amount gone forward on the present rise and remaining here, including the quantity brought down on the two pond freshets of last week, at from 35,000 to 40,000 bbls.; and not 60,000, as has been reported in the Pittsburgh journals. Buyers are very numerous, and are still anxious to secure Oil. But we attribute the present excited state of the market to the fact that many refineries below are about out of stock, and wish to get a supply on the present rise. The market closes buoyant and firm at $1 75, while producers are asking, with a good prospect of getting it before the week closes, $2."

PROVISIONS—Pork has been in fair demand and sales have been made of 1,000 bbls., in lots, at $13@$13 25 for old Mess; $15 25 for new Mess, and $11@$13 25 for old and new Prime, ⅌ bbl. Cut Meats are in moderate request, at 6½c.@8c. for Hams, and 5c.@5½c. for Shoulders, ⅌ ℔. Bacon is less sought after at 6½c.@8½c. ⅌ ℔.; sales 850 boxes. Lard is again higher; sales 2,400 tcs. and bbls., at 9½c.@10⅛c. ⅌ ℔. Beef continues in moderate request; sales 175 bbls., at $12 25@$13 50 for Extra Mess, and $10@$12 for Plain Mess, ⅌ bbl. Prime Mess, $19 50@$21 ⅌ tierce; India Mess, $22 50@$25 ⅌ tierce. Beef Hams, $14@$16 50 ⅌ bbl. Butter is quite depressed, at 14c@18c. for poor to choice Western, and 16c.⅌22c. for common to choice State ⅌ ℔. Cheese is in more demand at 10c.@14c.

THE REBELLION.

The pirates Florida and Alabama are both heard of again in the manner least welcome. An arrival at Halifax, from St. Thomas and Bermuda, brings intelligence that the Florida, in addition to the Star of Peace before reported, has recently captured the bark Lapwing, from Boston, and the bark M. J. Colcord, of New-York. Two guns and eighteen men were put on board the former, but the fate of the Colcord is unknown. A vessel arrived at Boston, from Cape Haytien, brings the report that the Alabama, on the 26th ult., chased two vessels on shore in Turk's Island passage. One of them went to pieces, but the cargo of the other would be saved.

We have this morning some particulars of the surprise and capture of McMinnville, Tenn., by a portion of Gen. ROSECRANS' forces, under Gen. REYNOLDS. The affair took place on Wednesday morning. The place was captured without much difficulty, and its railroad and telegraphic communications were destroyed. A large amount of rebel stores were also rendered useless, together with a large amount of cotton, a cotton-mill and a grist-mill.

Intelligence has been received at Cincinnati of the capture and destruction of the steamer Alhambra by guerrillas, in the Cumberland River. It appears that she grounded at a point called Devil's Elbow, on Sunday evening, the 13th, and before she was got off a guerrilla party made their appearance on the bank of the river when the crew deserted her and escaped. The steamer Hope was also grounded at the foot of Island No. 18, and the rebels were in sight of her when the crew of the Alhambra left. She has no doubt met a similar fate. The Hope was heavily laden, bound down the river. The Alhambra was in the Government service.

The report of the capture of Cape Girardeau, Mo., by the rebels, was, as we supposed, untrue. That place was occupied by Gen. MCNEIL'S command of National forces on Thursday, and is now perfectly secure from capture. Pilot Knob, too, is considered safe, though the rebels have occupied Frederickstown, twenty-two miles east of that point. Measures are being taken, however, which it is believed will result in their capture—certainly in their expulsion from the State.

The Army of the Frontier, under Gen. HERRON, has returned to Rolla, because there is nothing in Southwest Missouri and Northwest Arkansas to support the forces which must depend on supplies from St. Louis. When grass is sufficiently high, operations can be prosecuted with cavalry. The rebels are also prevented from moving infantry for want of supplies. One of HERRON'S divisions remains behind, scattered in Missouri, Arkansas and the Indian Territory. Col. HARRISON'S command, which lately fought the rebels at Fayetteville, belongs to this division.

A refugee from Arkansas says that the rebels have planted an immense wheat crop in that State, and recommends that National troops be sent in to destroy the grain before the rebels gather it.

The United States transport Dudley Beech arrived at this port yesterday, from Newbern on the 21st inst., with news fully confirmatory of the report that the rebels have raised the siege of Little Washington and retreated. A portion of them had made their appearance in the vicinity of Newbern, and Gen. FOSTER had sent out an expedition, headed by Gen. NAGLEE, to operate against them. On the 19th the expedition is known to have reached a place called Deep Gull, without encountering more than straggling parties of the enemy, but on the afternoon of that day cannonading was heard northwest of Newbern, which continued about an hour and a half—supposed to indicate an encounter with the rebels in considerable force.

It is hinted that the "blunder" which led to the escape of the Japan, or Virginia, from Greenock, is not chargeable to Mr. DUDLEY, our Consul at Liverpool, who has the reputation of being too careful a business man to make so serious a mistake. Those who claim to know, assert that it is much more probable that the part of the telegram stating that the vessel was at Greenock was suppressed in the telegraph office either at London or Liverpool.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, the Assembly resolution to adjourn sine die at 1 o'clock was laid on the table, but a resolution was subsequently adopted to adjourn finally at 9:30 to-day. The Assembly resolutions proposing an amendment to the Constitution, so as to allow soldiers to vote, was referred to the Committee of the Whole. The Senate refused to concur in the Assembly amendment to the Tax bill regarding County Treasurers, and it was reported that the Assembly refused to appoint a Conference Committee—thus leaving the bill pending in the Senate. The Cross-town Railroad bill was passed, 18 to 9; also the bill providing relief for indigent families of volunteers. The Assembly amendment to the Broadway Railroad bill, changing the Company from a Corporation to an Association, was concurred in—17 to 14. In the evening the Assembly amendments to the Bank bill were concurred in. Mr. DEAN'S Bank Capital Tax bill was passed. A message was received from the Governor vetoing the Soldiers' Proxy Vote bill, but it was passed over the veto. The Harbor Defence bill freely passed.

In the Assembly, the Forty-second-street Railroad bill was reported complete, and passed. The resolution relative to crediting volunteers in the quota for the draft was adopted; also the resolution directing an investigation of the affairs of the Savings Banks. The bill authorizing the organization of county corporations under the National Banking act was passed, with some amendment.

A joint meeting of the Senate and Assembly, presided over by Gov. SEYMOUR, was held yesterday, for the purpose of receiving the colors of seven State Volunteer regiments. The banners were presented on behalf of the regiments by Adjutant-Gen. SPRAGUE, and received for the State by Gov. SEYMOUR. The banners are those of the Thirtieth, Fortieth, Sixtieth, Sixty-first, Seventy-first, One Hundred and First and One Hundred and Second regiments. Eloquent addresses were made by Gov. SEYMOUR, Gen. SPRAGUE, Senator FOLGER and T. C. FIELDS. ALFRED B. STREET'S poem was then read and resolutions were adopted, pledging the State to uphold our armies and sustain the families of our volunteers. The colors will be deposited in the Bureau of Military Statistics.

A member of the Assembly, Mr. BROWN, of the Third District of Monroe County, was arrested yesterday on a charge of receiving a bribe for his vote in favor of the Broadway Railroad bill. GIDEON SEARLES, formerly a member from Cattaraugus County, was also arrested on a charge of bribery and corruption. Their examination was commenced before Justice COLE yesterday.

GENERAL NEWS.

The bark Venus arrived at this port yesterday, from Curaçoa, Venezuela, on the 10th inst. She reports that vessels were daily running the blockade at Maracaibo from Curaçoa. The Government party of Venezuela are said to be daily losing ground.

The Rochester Democrat is responsible for a rumor that Hon. A. B. DICKINSON, United States Marshal, has resigned that position and been reappointed Minister to Nicaragua, and that he sailed from this port on Tuesday.

During last week 53,000 nickels were coined at the United States Mint. This is at the rate of $27,560 per annum.

In the Court of Sessions, yesterday, before Recorder HOFFMAN, JOSEPH MARSHALL was convicted of grand larceny and sentenced to the State Prison for four years. BENJ. RICHARDSON pleaded guilty to larceny, and was sentenced to the Penitentiary for two years. CATHERINE WATERS was tried for larceny and acquitted. MARY SMITH pleaded guilty to shop-lifting, and was sentenced to the State Prison for three years.

The Stock market was very buoyant yesterday, the speculation in Shares taking a wide range. The price of Gold, on the sales of the day, was 1½@2 ℔ cent. higher than on Thursday, but ultimately closed dull at 151¼ ℔ cent. Money 4@5 ℔ cent. The subscriptions to the New Loan of 1882 were again on a large scale, by the conversion of Currency at par. The Deposits with the Treasury, on 5 ℔ cent. interest, were $1,050,000. Exchange on London 165@166 ℔ cent.

Cotton was in more demand yesterday and was a shade firmer. Flour, Corn, Oats, Sugars, Tallow, Pork, Bacon and Lard were in fair request, and prices were generally advancing. Metals, Fruit, Hemp, Spices, Hops, Seeds and Naval Stores were inactive. Whisky was dull and heavy. Oils were moderately inquired for. The public sales of Dry Goods were well attended, despite the storm, and in the main, passed off with spirit and a fair degree of success. The private trade, in both domestic and foreign fabrics, was, for the most part, confined to the large jobbing houses, which were doing a pretty good business generally, on the basis of last week's prices. The changes in other branches of trade were not important.

The Rebellion Necessarily a Failure.

There are two classes of revolutions: one for a change in the form or administration of Government, the other for territorial independence. It is remarkable what a difference there has been between them in respect to success.

Modern history abounds with instances where the people have successfully risen against a ruling power, and either deposed it or wrung from it such concessions as they desired. In fact nearly all the liberties of modern Europe have been acquired by just such struggles. While the geographical boundaries of the nation have remained the same, its internal elements—as in the case of the English revolutions against CHARLES I. and JAMES II., and the French revolutions against LOUIS XVI. and CHARLES X., and all the continental revolutions of 1848—may undergo a complete transformation, and that too, from their own inherent working. A genuine revolutionary movement can spring only from the popular will; and this, when fairly aroused, is always the strongest force in every nation. These revolutions, accordingly, are not only quite sure to prevail, but they do so without foreign help. The same internal impulse which starts them carries them through.

But the other sort, which aims at national dismemberment, have very different fortunes. Modern history may be searched almost in vain for an instance of their success without external assistance. We cannot now recall a single case of any account, save that of the Spanish Colonies in America; and their success was accomplished only after a struggle of many years, and was due mainly to the previous decline of the mother country in power, and to her immense distance from her seat of military operations. Ireland, Hungary and Poland have often tried revolution for territorial independence, but never successfully. All the revolutionary efforts of the Italian States against Austrian dominion were abortive until France finally came to the rescue. The Netherlands acquired their independence of Spain only through British help; Belgium its independence of the Netherlands only by the dictation of the Five Powers; Greece its independence of Turkey only through the hostile interference of England, France and Russia. Texas would never have secured its independence from Mexico, but through the help rendered by our own people. It is now, we believe, generally conceded that the struggle of our fathers for independence, heroic as it was, would have failed had it not been for the active assistance of France, extended in money, ships and troops. Even with that assistance, the struggle remained to the end so unpromising that JOHN ADAMS, who, for his efforts in bringing on and sustaining the Revolution, has been styled its very Colossus, afterward wrote: "There was not a moment during the Revolution when I would not have given everything I possessed for a restoration of the state of things before the contest began, provided we could have had a sufficient guaranty for its continuance." And WASHINGTON himself declared that he was indebted for his success more to the inertness and general inefficiency of the British generals in chief command, HOWE and CLINTON, than to any other earthly cause. The rebel leaders never mislead more grossly than when they hold up the issue of our fathers' struggle as an encouragement to the belief that their struggle, too, will succeed. The real bearing of that precedent is exactly the contrary. If the three million Colonists of the Revolution, engaged in as sacred a cause as was ever fought for, could not successfully cope with England, which was three thousand miles away, without foreign aid, how can less than twice that number of rebels, engaged in as wicked a cause as men ever fought for, successfully cope with the United States, which has nearly three times the loyal population of the England of that day, and which confronts their rebellion at its very doors?

This Southern rebellion can be no exception to the almost universal rule, that external assistance is indispensable to every successful revolution involving National dismemberment. The rebel leaders in the beginning confidently calculated upon such assistance. They believed that the European necessity for cotton would absolutely leave no alternative to foreign intervention in their favor. In fact, it was long doubtful whether this was not actually so. For the first eighteen months of the contest, English and French policy wavered greatly by reason of it; but at last it has virtually settled that there is no such need for cotton as would either necessitate or justify intervention. It is virtually concluded that however long this war may continue, England and France can take no part in it without greater injury to themselves than benefit. This decision really seals the doom of the Confederacy. Had the two great European Powers joined forces against us, though we would have fought them to the last, the final result might have been a temporary relinquishment of some portion of our National territory, more or less, to the Confederate usurpation. As things now are, there is no more chance of this than there is of its submersion under the Atlantic. We have the power to subdue this rebellion while it remains single-handed, and shall surely do it. The great Republic will prove itself to be possessed of the same vital principle which has been shown by history to belong to every other form of National existence—the principle that it can never be dismembered by internal convulsions, but only by external violence. When this war will cease, we do not venture to predict; neither can we say in what precise condition it will leave the South. It is enough to know that, without foreign interference, it never can cease until the old National flag floats undisturbed from the Lakes to the Gulf; and that this foreign interference has now become a moral impossibility. The only chance the rebellion ever had has not been realized; it has vanished forever. Nothing but pure desperation keeps up the struggle.

Suggestions Regarding the Conscription—Perils of the Future.

It is to be hoped that whenever the draft is made, enough men will be called for not simply to supply the actual wants of the army in the field, but to form a large and efficient reserve, to be kept under instruction and sent forward as fast as it is required. We believe this war is the first great war of modern times in which the whole army has been sent to face the enemy as fast as it was raised, without the slightest provision for the subsequent filling up of the gaps caused by casualties or disease. The first large army which was raised after the fall of Fort Sumter went to the seat of war en masse, in the belief then prevalent that the rebellion could be crushed by one great blow. The possibility that another army still might be required before the struggle was over, or even that the one then going to the field would ever need reinforcements, did not occur to anybody. So we went through the first campaign expending men with a sort of oriental extravagance. There was nothing of which we were not more careful than of soldiers. State rights, Governors' prerogatives, the election of officers, every popular crotchet, or delusion, or doctrine, or tradition, had hecatombs of privates offered up at its shrine. Every battle saw thousands disappear from the ranks, every march its hundreds, by bullet, by desertion, and by disease. The result was that at the close of our first campaign we needed, not reinforcements, but a new army, and accordingly called 600,000 fresh men into the field.

It is not too much to say that if 300,000 of these had been under arms for a year previous, and been well drilled, inured to camp life and to long marches, they would have been a more valuable addition to the national forces than double their number of raw troops, such as took the field. They would have done as much service in a better manner, and have cost at least one half less in pay, food, transportation and hospital expenses. The slaughter in every action, to say nothing of the purely military aspect of the matter, is prodigiously increased by the presence of raw troops, and particularly when, as is generally the case with our raw troops, they are commanded by inexperienced officers. Want of familiarity with the use of firearms, and want of dexterity in manœuvring, constantly exposes regiments and brigades to wholesale destruction, which the bravery of the men, in standing their ground, only renders more horrible and shocking. Regiments were flung against the enemy at Antietam that had never loaded or fired, and had only once or twice stood in line, and the result was that they were helplessly butchered, to the great discouragement of the survivors, and the great elation of the enemy. Occurrences of this kind, at a time when any number of men could have been had for the asking, admit of no excuse or palliation. The Government which can call out a man in January and train and drill him quietly in camp for half a year, preparatory to using him in the field, and yet does not call him out until August, and then sends him into action fresh from the plow, is guilty of something worse than negligence.

The fact is, that we cannot go on using up men at our present or past rate. We have already consumed all our purely superfluous material. All the waifs and strays of society, all the men whom the community can easily spare, and a great many more beside, are already in the ranks. These we got by volunteering. But, now that we are about to resort to conscription, we must economize life and courage and skill. The men who will march under our next levy will be men whom we can ill spare—the absence of every one of whom will be felt in the factory, the field and the counting-room. To say nothing whatever of humanity, the commonest regard for the national strength and resources demands that we should be niggard as misers of their blood; that not one drop of it should be shed which preparation, discipline, training and good officering can save. There are countries in which men are a drug, in which half a million might fall under the cannon, and only leave the survivors more room, better food and better clothing; but we are not in that condition. Large as our population is, our resources are larger, and in every man who falls, we lose an instrument in the creation of happiness and comfort for himself and dozens of others.

So that sound policy, as well as the highest humanity, demands that enough men should be drafted now, not merely to fill up the actual deficits in the field, but to create a large trained reserve, which shall, from time to time, reinforce the regiments in actual service, and, what is of still more importance, which shall form an army ready for instant and effective service in case of an unexpected, overwhelming disaster. Our battles, or at least all our reverses in this war, have been extraordinarily indecisive in their character. We have never either gained a complete victory or suffered a complete defeat. We have, consequently, altogether lost sight of one of the most terrible contingencies of war. We ought to remember that we are, in every action, in spite of the valor of our men and in spite of the skill of our officers, however great they may be—liable, in consequence perchance of a mere accident, to a defeat involving the destruction of the whole army—a rout like Jena, or Austerlitz, or Waterloo, which would not leave a division or a battery in existence. The only safeguard against a catastrophe of this sort is a large reserve; and if such a catastrophe found us without a reserve, there are no military critics who would not declare us to have deserved our fate.

THE TRUTH AT LAST.—Some weeks since our Washington correspondent stated that Gen. HOOKER, in his evidence before the War Committee of the Senate, attributed the failure of the Peninsular campaign to the incapacity of the Commander. This was met by a storm of indignant denials, led, if we mistake not, by our neighbor, the World. It was roundly asserted and reiterated that Gen. HOOKER had never made any such statement, or expressed any such opinion. We now find in the report of Gen. HOOKER'S evidence, given on that occasion, the following question and answer:

Question—To what do you attribute the failure of the Peninsular campaign?

Answer—I do not hesitate to say that it is to be attributed to the want of generalship on the part of our Commander.

That point may be considered settled. Whether Gen. HOOKER is or is not a competent judge may be open to doubt, but our correspondent's statement as to the character of his testimony is not.

THE PAPER-MAKERS' COMBINATION AGAIN.—Just as we predicted, now that Congress has adjourned, the combination of paper-makers is again at work to raise the price of paper. Before the Committees of Congress they denied the existence of any such combination, and especially scouted the idea that there was any purpose or wish to keep up the price of paper beyond a fair market value. Their assurances carried a good deal of weight with the Committee of the House of Representatives, and prevented the reduction of the duty on imported printing paper from 35 to any point lower than 20 per cent. Since all danger of further legislation on the subject has disappeared, they have come into the field again, and, as we learn from a report of the proceedings of their recent meeting, they have resolved to put the paper-mills on three-quarters time. If this is not a movement to keep up prices, pray what is it?

Fortunately, the action of Congress on the paper duty, inadequate as it was, renders it possible to put some limit to this artificial increase of price. Paper, for newspaper purposes, can be imported, even under the present high rates of exchange and of duties, at about fifteen cents a pound; so that the combination cannot force prices much beyond that figure, without leading at once to large importations and a reduction of price. A consignment of some 5,000 reams for the NEW-YORK TIMES from Belgium has already arrived and more will speedily follow. We do not believe the combination will be able to repeat the experience of last Fall.

Amusements.

THEATRE FRANCAIS.—This evening the capital comedy called "Le Voyage de Monsieur Perichon" will be repeated. It is very strongly cast and performed admirably in every part.

PHILHARMONIC CONCERT.—The New-York Philharmonic Society gives the fifth Concert of its twenty-first season to-night at Irving Hall. The orchestral pieces announced are BEETHOVEN'S Symphony No. 7, the overtures to "Ossian" and "Les Francs Juges," and MENDELSSOHN'S Concerto, No. 2, for the piano. The solo performers for the occasion will be R. HOFFMAN, piano, and L. SCHRIEBER, cornet-à-piston. CARL BERGMAN acts as conductor.

WINTER GARDEN.—Miss LUCILLE WESTERN was rewarded for her exertions of the past few weeks, by having a crowded house at her farewell benefit last evening. She played Juliana, in "The Honeymoon," and Don Cæsar de Bazan, in the piece of that name. Her personation of the latter part was dashing and effective. She looked it handsomely and seemed more at home in it than she has done in heroines of the sentimental drama.

Next week Mr. J. S. CLARKE commences an engagement at the Winter Garden, when a revised edition of "The Toodles," with other entertainments, will be given.

GERMAN OPERATIC MATINEE IN BROOKLYN.—To-day, at 2 P. M., Mr. ANSCHUTZ'S troupe will give FLOTOW'S opera of "Stradella," at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. Madame JOHANNSEN and Messrs. GRAFF, LOTTI, WEINLICH and QUINT are in the cast, and the opera will be given in its entirety. "Don Giovani" was given last night to a house by no means as large as it should have been, though the audience made up in enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers. This will close the season in Brooklyn.

The Commissioner has also decided that all persons acting as attorneys in the presentation and collection of claims against the Government, must take out licenses as claim agents. A license as a lawyer will not cover that practice.

WASHINGTON, Friday, April 24.

THE SLAVE-TRADE TREATY.

The President has officially proclaimed the additional article to the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, for the suppression of the African slave-trade.

The following is the additional article:

Whereas by the first article of the treaty between Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the United States of America, for the suppression of the African Slave-trade, signed at Washington on the 7th of April, 1862, it was stipulated and agreed that those ships of the respective navies of the two high contracting parties which shall be provided with special instructions for that purpose, as thereinafter mentioned, may visit such merchant vessels of the two nations as may, upon reasonable grounds, be suspected of being engaged in the African Slave-trade, or of having been fitted out for that purpose, or of having, during the voyage on which they are met by the said cruisers, been engaged in the African Slave-trade, contrary to the provisions of the said treaty; and that such cruisers may detain and send or carry away such vessels, in order that they may be brought to trial in the manner thereinafter agreed upon; and whereas, it was by the said article further stipulated and agreed that the reciprocal right of search and detention should be exercised only within the distance of two hundred miles from the coast of Africa, and to the southward of the thirty-second parallel of north latitude, and within thirty leagues from the coast of the Island of Cuba; and whereas, the two high contracting parties are desirous of rendering the said treaty still more efficacious for its purpose—the plenipotentiaries who signed the said treaty have, in virtue of their full powers, agreed that the reciprocal right of visit and detention, as defined in the article aforesaid, may be exercised also within thirty leagues of the Island of Madagascar, within thirty leagues of the Island of Puerto Rico, and within thirty leagues of the Island of San Domingo. The present additional article shall have the same force and validity as if it had been inserted word for word in the treaty concluded between the two high contracting parties on the 7th of April, 1862, and shall have the same duration as that treaty. It shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at London in six months from this date, or sooner if possible. In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have thereunto affixed the seal of their arms. Done at Washington, the 17th day of February, in the year of our Lord 1863.

THE ALLEGED TREASON IN THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

JAMES L. ADDISON, Clerk in the Adjutant-General's Bureau, and his brother, ANTHONY ADDISON, Clerk in the Census Office, publish a card pronouncing false the widely published allegation that they are rebel spies and mail-carriers, and that through their instrumentality important army orders had been furnished to the enemy. The former only was arrested on Saturday night, but as he continues at his desk, it is fair to suppose that the investigation of the case did not establish the truth of the suspicion affecting his loyalty.

EX-GOVERNOR STANLY.

Ex-Gov. STANLY, of North Carolina, will resume his residence in California. His resignation as Military Governor was voluntary. While here recently he was on the best possible terms with all members of the Administration.

PINNER'S AMBULANCE KITCHEN.—A very interesting trial of a new army cooking-apparatus took place at Albany on Monday last, by order of the Governor of this State. The inventor and patentee is Capt. M. PINNER, of this City, and recently a member of Major-Gen. KEARNEY'S Staff. The invention itself consists of a wagon, combining the following features: a well-arranged provision-wagon, a moveable cooking-range and baking-oven, ambulance accommodations for four men, a medicine and instrument chest, and a dining and amputating table. Nevertheless, the invention is praised for its simplicity and compactness of construction, and promises to be a blessing to our armies, and particularly to our sick and wounded soldiers in hospitals and on the battle-field. We publish to-day the report of the three Generals appointed by the Governor a Commission to witness the trial, and hope that it will attract the attention of the authorities at Washington.

Dr. B. Segnitz
ON THE
CURE OF
DISEASES OF THE THROAT AND LUNGS,
by the local application of remedial agents.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

SIR: Among the diseases to which this cure is particularly adapted are the following:

INFLAMMATION OF THE THROAT,
TONSILITIS,
CATARRHAL AFFECTIONS,
DIPHTHERIA,
ULCERATION OF THE THROAT,
GLOTTITIS,
ASTHMA,
TUBERCULOUS AFFECTIONS, &c.

The method of curing these diseases by local application of remedial agents has attracted the attention of the most eminent European physicians, and the improvement of the instrument called the "Laryngoscope," has confirmed the best medical authorities in the advocacy of this beneficial treatment. It affords me particular pleasure to state that I have practiced this method for many years, to the great advantage of my patients, and since I succeeded in perfecting my "Insufflation Tube for the Proper Local Application of Remedies," my method of curing such diseases and preventing consumption has achieved eminently satisfactory results. Even non-medical men must comprehend that a local cure in all such diseases must have far greater success than saturating the system with the usual large quantity of medicines.

Whoever wishes to ascertain the results from observation or reference, is invited to call at my office, where he will have the opportunity of satisfying himself of the astonishing effects produced thereby.

Your obedient servant, B. SEGNITZ, M. D.,

Premature Loss of the Hair, which is so common now-a-days, may be entirely prevented by the use of BURNETT'S COCOAINE. It has been used in thousands of cases where the hair was coming out in handfuls, and has never failed to arrest its decay, and to promote a healthy and vigorous growth. It is at the same time unrivaled as a dressing for the hair. A single application will render it soft and glossy for several days. Prepared by JOSEPH BURNETT & CO., Boston.

Costiveness.—No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails, and no one can expect to enjoy health permanently who permits it, for it is contrary to the economy of the system, and gives rise to a goodly proportion of the ills which afflict the human race. To neglect it, therefore, is to insure ill health of greater or less duration; yet, in attempting its removal, discrimination with regard to the remedies to be used is requisite. Violent purgatives temporarily remove obstructions, weaken the bowels, and reduce the strength of the patient, and are followed usually by greater constipation, rendering another and another dose necessary, until even the strongest purgatives lose their effect, and the patient's condition becomes deplorable. What is required is a gentle purgative—one having some action on the liver, and one that can be taken daily without impairing the strength of the patient, or injury to the system, until the tendency to constipation is removed. But few remedies have been found to meet these requirements, and of these few probably none have been so successful, as demonstrated by many years' use, as Dr. D. JAYNE'S SANATIVE PILLS. They are usually taken every night at bedtime, causing, in proper doses, no inconvenience during the night, and producing no sickness or unpleasant effect during the day, so that persons may follow their usual avocations, whether of business or pleasure, in the same manner as if they had not taken the Pills. Their good effect will begin to be obvious after a week or two's use, particularly in greater clearness of mind, and an increased energy and disposition to work and to enjoy life, and their continued use in the restoration of the health to the patient. Sold by KITCHEN, TYLER & CO., and at retail by Druggists generally.

LETTER FROM HORACE COOLIDGE, ESQ., OF FRANKFORT.

FRANKFORT, Herkimer Co., N. Y., Nov. 1, 1859.
Messrs. S. W. FOWLE & Co., Boston:

In the Fall of 1847 I took a severe cold, which settled upon my lungs. I tried several kinds of medicine and consulted several physicians, but received no benefit. The Fall of 1848 found me completely prostrated—confined to my bed with the same severe cough, accompanied with severe pain in my side, profuse sweats and restless nights. At this crisis I sent for a bottle of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, and wonderful to relate, before I had used the first bottle my cough had greatly subsided, my night sweats had left me, my appetite had returned, my pulse became regular, I slept soundly, and was soon able to be out and attend to business. I then consulted an able physician in relation to the course I had pursued and the medicine I had taken; he advised me to continue to use the Balsam, which I did, and found myself a well man; and, now, at an age exceeding fifty years, enjoy as good health as ever before.

Wherever, during the last ten years, I have found an individual suffering from cough, I have always recommended the Balsam, and, in numerous cases, have sent it gratuitously to the suffering poor. In conclusion, I would say what I have said a great many times before, that the Balsam, with God's blessing, saved my life.

HORACE COOLIDGE.

☞ CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.—The only genuine WISTAR'S BALSAM has the written signature of "I. BUTTS" and the printed one of the Proprietors on the outer wrapper; all other is vile and worthless.

WONDERFUL ELECTRICAL DISCOVERIES.

ANNOUNCEMENT.—We take pleasure in announcing that the experiments upon which we have so long been engaged have been crowned with signal success, and we have achieved a discovery in Medical Electricity of startling import.

These researches unfold an entire new principle governing the laws of life.

What may seem almost incredible is that many diseases hitherto considered hopelessly incurable, are frequently cured in a few days or weeks, and we cheerfully invite the investigations of the liberal-minded and scientific, to cures which have no parallel in any age.

It has fallen to our province to treat some of the most frightful diseases and complicated maladies, and our success has exceeded anything ever recorded in any medical works.

The difference between Medicated Electricity and ordinary electricity is very great. We have cured in four treatments persons who have received over one hundred treatments by other electricians without benefit.

Our auxiliaries of the New School Practice embrace Medicated Electricity and Galvanism; Medicated, Aerated, Vapor and Magnetic Baths; the Swedish Movement Cure of Ling; Hydropathy, or Water-Cure.

The Institute is the most complete and elegant Medical Establishment in America. Our Baths of all kinds are spacious and luxurious. Lady attendants for Ladies. Our Electrified Medicines sent to any part of the country on receipt of $5 (often sufficient to cure.) Treatment, Baths and Consultations day and evening. Patients treated personally or by letter, in City or country.

All consulting letters must inclose a fee of $2.

Interesting Descriptive Pamphlets sent free.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

From the Home Journal.

Dr. Scott occupies a flattering prominence in the medical faculty.

From the Daily News, Brooklyn.

We speak from personal experience of our own and son Edwin, who suffered exceedingly for five years. We took him to the Institute, and, almost incredible as it may seem, in a single operation of a few minutes he was relieved of all pain.

From the Express.

The former great objection to Electricity—namely: the unpleasant sensations attending its application—are by this system entirely obviated, and no shocks given.

From the Quarterly Review.

The new practice of Medical Electricity, denominated the Vitalic System, originated by Dr. Scott, of the New-York Medical Institute, and of which he is the leading practitioner in America, is silently effecting a revolution in the Healing Art.

ANOTHER ORIGINAL STORY!

THE SUNDAY DISPATCH

FOR THIS WEEK (April 26)

Will contain the opening Chapters of an original story of intense interest, entitled

CAPTAIN JACK;
OR, THE
BLACK HUNTER OF THE FOREST.

From the pen of CHARLES HENRY DAY, Esq., author of "ALICE DRAYTON," etc. We hazard nothing in saying that this story will be found superior to any production of the kind which has appeared for years. It absorbs the attention of the reader at the outset, and we will defy any one to desist from perusing it to the end. The opening scene is one of the most graphic and vivid the imagination can conceive of. The interest it excites is such as will hold the reader's mind spellbound, as if in a trance, every sense being under the powerful influence of the fearful tragedy being enacted before his eyes.

Tales of Indian warfare will always, to the American mind, possess more or less interest. The traditions which have come down to us respecting the wild character and habits of the red man, the associations which cluster around them in connection with the early settlers of our country, all combine, and will continue to do so for centuries to come, to invest every Indian legend with romantic interest. The universal curiosity exhibited in this City, only within a few days past, to see the warriors who have honored our metropolis with their presence, proves this. The very atrocities of which the red men have frequently been guilty—their shocking inhumanity to their prisoners—the modes of torture to which they resort to glut their vengeance upon their enemies, all, while they make us shudder to read or hear them, serve to attract rather than repel public attention to any well-written narrative of the startling incidents in their history. But as there is no cloud without a silver lining, so there is no picture, however dark, that has not some bright feature. So with the Indian. If he never forgives an injury, he never forgets a favor. If he pledges his word, he never fails to redeem it. Can as much be said of the white man? The bright side of Indian character is happily illustrated by the author in the portraiture of the Indian maiden, BRIGHT LIGHTNING, and the famous warrior, RED FOX, many of whose deeds are now recorded in history. Capt. JACK, the hero of the story, must speak for himself to be appreciated. As he proceeds, the reader will not be surprised to find him the sworn enemy of the whole Indian race.

Which are the evidences of LIVER COMPLAINT AND DYSPEPSIA.

It is estimated that seven-tenths of all adult ailments proceed from a diseased and torpid liver. The biliary secretions of the liver overflowing into the stomach poison the entire system and exhibit the above symptoms.

After long research, we are able to present the most remarkable cure for these horrid nightmare diseases the world has ever produced. Within one year, over six hundred and forty thousand persons have taken the Plantation Bitters, and not an instance of complaint has come to our knowledge!

It is a most effectual tonic and agreeable stimulant, suited to all conditions of life.

The reports that it relies upon mineral substances for its active properties, are wholly false. For the public satisfaction, and that patients may consult their physicians, we append a list of its components.

CALISAYA BARK—Celebrated for over two hundred years in the treatment of Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Weakness, &c. It was introduced into Europe by the Countess, wife of the Viceroy of Peru, in 1640, and afterwards sold by the Jesuits for the enormous price of its own weight in silver, under the name of Jesuit's Powders, and was finally made public by Louis XVI., King of France. Humboldt makes especial reference to its febrifuge qualities during his South American travels.

CASCARILLA BARK—For diarrhea, colic and diseases of the stomach and bowels.

DANDELION—For inflammation of the loins and dropsical affections.

CAMOMILE FLOWERS—For enfeebled digestion.

LAVENDER FLOWERS—Aromatic, stimulant and tonic—highly invigorating in nervous debility.

WINTERGREEN—For scrofula, rheumatism, &c.

ANISE—An aromatic carminative; creating flesh, muscle and milk; much used by mothers nursing.

Also, clove-buds, orange, carraway, coriander, snake-root, &c.

S. T.—1860—X.

Another wonderful ingredient, of Spanish origin, imparting beauty to the complexion and brilliancy to the mind, is yet unknown to the commerce of the world, and we withhold its name for the present.

DEAFNESS

NOISES IN THE HEAD,

Diseases of the Eye, Ear & Throat,

CATARRH CURED

BY

DR. VON EISENBERG.

From the Journal of Commerce.

EXCITING NEWS FOR THE DEAF.—An instrument called Dr. Von Eisenberg's Air Passage Expander and Regulator, a gigantic machine, weighing nearly five hundred pounds, about five feet in height, a most wonderful apparatus for restoring sight and hearing, has just arrived for Dr. Von Eisenberg, the celebrated Oculist and Aurist, and will be on exhibition at the Doctor's office, No. 816 Broadway, for a few days previous to its use. The instrument is constructed decidedly on the most scientific principles. To give a detailed description would require a greater space than we can now spare. Our Oculist and Aurist seems to do everything in the line of his profession on a gigantic scale. The new instrument for restoring hearing to the deaf and sight to the blind is so constructed that it cannot fail to open the most obstructed air passages. His new consulting rooms, No. 816 Broadway, are correspondingly magnificent, and his practice as Aurist and Oculist large and eminently successful.

From the New-York Evening Express, Feb. 14, 1868.

SENSATION AMONG THE DEAF.—The unrivaled skill of Dr. Von Eisenberg, the far-famed Oculist and Aurist, of No. 816 Broadway, has made quite a sensation among the Deaf and Blind by his wonderful cures, which attract the Deaf, Blind and those suffering from Chronic Catarrh, from all parts of the Union to his office. The number of his certificates of really wonderful cures swells daily. For the benefit of sufferers, we submit the following, which requires no comment:

NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

JOHN TAYLOR.
No. 13 Livingston-st., Brooklyn.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CARROLL J. POST, No. 28 South-st.

No. 188 MERCER-ST., NEW-YORK.

J. E. VON EISENBERG, M. D.—Dear Doctor: I have been afflicted with total deafness, and was induced to pay you a visit. No one can imagine my delight when, after one operation, my hearing was suddenly, and without pain, restored to me, for which I feel very grateful. After being totally deaf—almost shut out from the pleasure of using so necessary a sense—to have it returned, and to hear so distinctly, reflects great credit on you for the immense amount of skill you possess. I beg to thank you for what I can so truly appreciate. I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

EDWARD TEMPLE HARRISON.

NEW-YORK, Nov. 6, 1862.

DR. VON EISENBERG—Dear Sir: Before taking leave of you, after your most successful operation on my ear, allow me to express my sincere thanks that, by your scientific surgical performance, I am enabled to hear distinctly, and enjoy a pleasure of which I have long been deprived—over a year. May you be rewarded by being enabled to perform many similar, to benefit other sufferers, and to your own emolument.

Allow me to present my kindest regards, and assure you of my grateful remembrance.

Respectfully,
A. McDONALD REYNOLDS,
Captain Marines, United States.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.
READ.

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

"PINNER'S AMBULANCE KITCHEN."

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS STATE OF NEW-YORK, }
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
ALBANY, April 20, 1863. }

His Excellency Horatio Seymour, Governor of the State of New-York:

GOVERNOR: The undersigned, having been appointed by Your Excellency a Commission to witness a trial and report on the merits of a locomotive Army Kitchen, recently invented and patented by Capt. M. Pinner, of New-York City, have the honor to submit to Your Excellency the following report:

That they have this day witnessed the trial of a locomotive cooking apparatus called "Pinner's Ambulance Kitchen;" that they found it to work well for all practical army cooking purposes, that they were pleased with the simplicity and compactness of its construction, and that, in their judgment from a military, sanitary, humanitarian and economical point of view, our armies would greatly gain by the general introduction of this invention. The undersigned further beg leave to name the following as the chief merits of said invention, to wit:

1. One of Pinner's Ambulance Kitchens might do the ordinary army cooking for 500 men, and two of them might, therefore, suffice for all the cooking purposes of a regiment of ordinary strength.

2. On occasion of battle, when the immediate relief of the wounded is an object, one such kitchen kept a cooking all day long, and preparing what is called stock soup, or stock coffee, could probably issue hot coffee or soup to 3,000 men in 10 hours.

3. Pinner's Ambulance Kitchen would also prove the means of saving many lives, and greatly lessen the sufferings of the wounded before they could be removed from the battle-field, and at a time when, in consequence of excitement, excessive fatigue, shock of wound, and often lack of food, complete exhaustion threatens death. In nearly all cases, such an Ambulance Kitchen could be hauled to the vicinity of the battle-field, and hot food in pails, stimulants, medicines, and surgical instruments all transported in this kitchen, could then easily be carried to the wounded.

4. The same speedy relief could be brought to sick and wounded men in field hospitals, by hauling such Ambulance Kitchen from one hospital to another, cooking while traveling.

5. Before sending troops into action, or while temporarily withdrawing them from the field, hot food could be issued to them from such kitchen. Troops would thus become much more effective than heretofore, and the prostrating effects of wounds would also be lessened.

6. While troops are marching their accompanying Ambulance Kitchen could cook for them, and while resting occasionally, hot food could be issued. In rainy or cold weather, or when troops are reaching camp late at night, such ever-ready supply of hot food must prove particularly beneficial.

7. The great nuisance of straggling on the march in quest of food would be diminished, if not altogether prevented, by the introduction of such Ambulance Kitchens. Men inclined to roam in quest of food would be apt to follow such traveling kitchens, and men falling sick on the road would thus also have a chance of speedy relief.

8. Pickets stationed in localities where the screening of fire is an object, and who heretofore had to subsist on cold rations, regardless of weather, could be supplied with hot food from such traveling kitchens.

9. From the ever-ready baking-oven, forming part of this Ambulance Kitchen, fresh bread could be issued much oftener to the troops than has been possible under the present system. To sick and wounded in particular this would be a relief.

10. The cooking apparatus in Pinner's Ambulance Kitchen (which can easily be taken into or out of the wagon carrying it) would answer very well as a substitute for all other camp or hospital cooking utensils, (excepting those in very large permanent hospitals,) and thus the often occurring loss and waste of such utensils would be prevented.

11. A more uniform, wholesome and economical mode of cooking for the army would be encouraged and obtained by the use of such Ambulance Kitchens.

Four horses for each such Ambulance Kitchen would suffice in the field. The tables carried in these Kitchens could be used for surgical or dining purposes, and each such Ambulance Kitchen would also be able to carry four wounded men conveniently from the field.

For officers' messes, sutler's restaurants or bakeries, for exploring or surveying expeditions, overland emigration and probably prospecting in mining districts, these Ambulance Kitchens could be also used to great advantage. In a pecuniary point of view the general introduction of Pinner's Ambulance Kitchen into the armies of the United States would prove an immediate and large saving to the Government. Twenty men per regiment, now superficially employed in cooking, as well as large quantities of fuel, provisions and cooking utensils could be saved, and the health, comfort and efficiency of our armies would be promoted besides.

We, therefore, cheerfully recommend to the Government the adaptation and general introduction of Pinner's Ambulance Kitchen.

Most respectfully submitted,

JOHN T. SPRAGUE,
Major First Infantry, U. S. A., and Brigadier-General and Adjutant-General State of New-York.
J. V. P. QUACKENBUSH,
Brigadier-General and Surgeon-General State of New-York.
S. V. TALCOTT,
Brigadier-General and Quartermaster-General State of New-York.

I have examined the Locomotive Cooking Apparatus, and concur in the opinions expressed in the within report.

HORATIO SEYMOUR,
Governor State of New-York.

will cause the hair to grow in the most luxuriant manner. It is a sure preventive against baldness; prevents the hair from falling out or from turning premature gray. Will restore gray hair to its original color, by curing the disease of the scalp.

CERTIFICATES.

This is to certify that, about eighteen months ago, I commenced using STERLING'S AMBROSIA. My hair was short, thin, and rapidly falling out. I had tried many Hair Tonics, Invigorators, &c., without receiving any benefit. Soon after using the Ambrosia, my hair ceased falling out, and commenced growing so rapidly as to astonish me. Now, my hair is thick, soft and glossy, and is five feet four inches in length—when let down, reaching to the floor. This wonderful result I attribute solely to the use of STERLING'S AMBROSIA, as since I commenced using it I have applied nothing else to my hair.

FINANCIAL.

AGENCY OF THE
NATIONAL (FIVE-TWENTY YEAR) LOAN.

OFFICE OF LIVERMORE, CLEWS & Co.,
No. 34 Wall-st., New-York.

We take this means of answering the numerous inquiries made of us respecting the United States Five-Twenty Loan, for which we act as agents.

Said Bonds bear six per cent. interest, payable semi-annually, in gold, on the first of May and the first of November.

Have twenty years to run, but being redeemable at the pleasure of the Government after five years, are designated Five-Twenties.

Are issued both in Coupon and Registered Bonds; the former in denominations of 50's, 100's, 500's, 1,000's; the latter in 50's, 100's, 500's, 1,000's, 5,000's and 10,000's.

The Coupon Bonds have coupons attached for twenty years, and are payable transferable to bearer.

The Registered are issued in the name of the purchaser, (whose name and residence are recorded on the books of the Treasury Department at Washington,) and are only transferable by signature, or power of Attorney, before an authorized Government official. The interest is collected in the same manner at the Sub-Treasury nearest the owner's residence.

Both principal and interest are payable in gold, as provided by act of Congress.

Are, (in common with all Government Bonds,) free from taxation by city, town, county or State; and the income derived therefrom is subject only to one-half of the United States tax levied upon incomes derived from other sources.

The privilege of conversion at par will cease on the 1st of July, 1863.

These Bonds are supplied by us at par and accrued interest in currency—interest commencing to the purchaser upon deposit of the money. Hence, the first coupon falling due, being stamped with the date of the issue of the Bond, will be fractional, instead of three per cent., like the succeeding ones.

Orders, by mail or otherwise, accompanied by draft on New-York, or current funds, will be promptly responded to. LIVERMORE, CLEWS & CO., Bankers.

CAUTION TO LADIES.

Madame RESTELL, Female Physician, No. 162 Chambers-street, deems it her duty to caution ladies against impostors, who appropriate her advertisements, word for word, merely substituting some ignorant and wholly irresponsible person as "Madame."

These persons have spurious "Female Monthly Pills" and other poisonous compounds to deprive the unwary or the easily duped, as well of their means as of their health.

That ladies may avoid these impositions, Madame Restell feels called upon to give this caution.

[Communicated.]

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

A short time since our attention was arrested by an announcement in the public journals of a new discovery in electrical science, which, if true, must transcend in importance all other discoveries, the lightning rod and telegraph not excepted.

At the present time thoughtful minds everywhere are looking for the revelation of new and important discoveries in science, and when an individual presents his theory, claiming to have discovered new light, and to have removed the vail of obscurity from a subject of the highest importance, upon which much has been written and more conjectured, it is proper that his claims should be presented, and carefully examined and tested.

WE REFER TO THE DISCOVERIES

in Electricity, as a therapeutic agent, by Dr. Chamberlin, at No. 50 Bond-street, New-York, a distinguished electrical physician. The announcement of Dr. C., united with an invitation to all who desire to investigate the subject, induced us to call at his rooms, and ascertain, if possible, the truth of his claims. In conversing with the Doctor, we learned that he had devoted many years to the study of, and experiments in electrical science, particularly that branch of it relating to the electrical forces of action in the human body, the cause of disease, rationale of cure, &c., and from the principles discovered, claimed to have perfected a system of treatment for the removal of all maladies at all curable, by means of the various combinations of electricity.

THE DOCTOR'S THEORY IS

That the human system is but a galvanic arrangement, with its acids and alkalies, constituting the positive and negative forces, and that every mental and physical manifestation, either voluntary or involuntary, is the result of this antagonism; that digestion, circulation, secretion and excretion, are wholly attributable to the law of electrical influences; that the nerves are the conductors of Electricity; and that there is a polar action established through the nervous system, which connects with every part of the body, establishing and preserving a proper balance of the electric element, which constitutes health, and a disturbance of which causes disease; that there are strictly but two conditions of disease, the one positive, the other negative; and as Electricity possesses those two inherent principles, it will, if applied according to the electric polarities and requirements of the system, arrest, or in other words, neutralize the disease by the restoration of proper polar action.

THE DOCTOR FURTHER ASSERTS

That all drugs taken into the system act strictly upon electrical principles; that from decomposition the latent electricity is set free, and that, through the electrical polarities of the nervous system, all changes are produced either for good or for evil; that in the incipient stage of disease it may tend to equalize the forces, and restore harmony; but after the case has become refractory, paralyzing the nervous communications, and changing the constituents of the fluids, and arresting the digestive action of the stomach and its power of appropriation, no internal process of medication ever has, or ever can, succeed in removing the cause of the disease, its only tendency being to multiply and complicate the symptoms.

ON THE CONTRARY,

Electricity being the vital element upon which life depends, can be directed to any part of the body, and even after the vital functions seem paralyzed, possesses the power of arousing the dormant energies, equalizing the circulation, and restoring the system to a self-sustaining condition.

THE UNDERSIGNED,

Feeling deeply interested in the subject of electrical science, and especially that branch of it which relates to the cure of disease, as practiced by Dr. Chamberlin, take occasion to affirm, both from our own experience and observation, that we believe it simple and effective, and deserving the attention of the afflicted. We have witnessed the complete restoration to health of many persons who have been long ill, who have enjoyed the benefits of the advice and skill of some of the most eminent medical practitioners of this and other countries, without relief or even hope of relief. In some instances the disease of years' standing has yielded almost at the first touch of the electric element, while in others it has required a more protracted treatment, and, without exception, the most satisfactory results have followed.

ONE VERY IMPORTANT FEATURE of the treatment is that no time is lost in experimenting with disease. By means of an electrical test an accurate diagnosis is given at once, determining the locality and character of the disease, and indicating the treatment to be pursued.

From what has been suggested, it will be apparent that no mere charlatan in his profession, no student of a day, could be relied upon to apply this mighty agent to the human organism.

WE DESIRE, THEREFORE,

thus publicly to make it known that Dr. Chamberlin has demonstrated to us, in the most satisfactory manner, that his claims are based upon immutable laws, that his treatment is founded upon scientific principles, and we most cordially recommend all who are suffering from physical ills to consult Dr. Chamberlin, under whose supervision they will learn for themselves that what we have affirmed in reference to his system is true and entitled to their grateful recognition.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE NEW BOOK BY AUTHOR OF "AMONG THE PINES."

CARLETON, PUBLISHER, NEW-YORK,
Will issue early next week,
MY SOUTHERN FRIEND.
By Edmund Kirke, author of "Among the Pines."
One handsome 12mo., elegantly bound in cloth. Price $1, and paper covers 75 cents.

The success that has attended the publication of "Among the Pines," has been of the most extraordinary character. With Hugo's "Les Miserables," it stands as one of the great successes of the publishing season. Extravagantly praised by every one—both as the most truthful picture of Southern life ever written, as well as a work of great dramatic and powerful interest, it ranks confessedly as one of the marvels of American authorship, and it is not surprising that its sale has nearly reached the enormous number of 40,000 copies within so short a period of publication.

THE NEW BOOK,
MY SOUTHERN FRIENDS,
By the same Author,

While it possesses all the strength and truthfulness of its predecessor, has woven through it a narrative of intense dramatic interest—a charm that will insure for it a popularity exceeding even that of "Among the Pines."

Mr. CARLETON publishes at the same time a new, larger, and handsomer edition of "Pines," uniform with "My Southern Friends," and at the same price.

TAXES, AND HOW TO PAY THEM.
NEW EDITION READY TO-DAY,
THE U. S TAX LAW,
"GOVERNMENT EDITION."

Prepared by E. H. Hall, Washington, D. C. One small 12mo, fine, clear type, and good paper, cloth bound, price 75 cents, and paper covers 50 cents.

THE BEST TAX LAW OUT

The peculiar superiority that this "Government Edition" possesses above all others, is that the laws are not printed bodily, as passed in Congress, but are arranged in a tabular and condensed form, so that every one can learn all they want to know at a glance, and without wasting half a day over the book.

Taxes, Licenses, Stamp Duties, Assessors' Decisions, and everything worth knowing, are embodied in half the space usually devoted to such matters, and the book is consequently worth twice as much as any other work of its kind. Emphatically a book for the people.

Be sure to order Carleton's "Government Edition."

A NEW NOVEL.
HARPER & BROTHERS,
Franklin-square, New-York,
PUBLISH THIS DAY:
A FIRST FRIENDSHIP.
A NOVEL.
8vo, Paper, 25 cents.

The plot of this tale is constructed with a skill hardly inferior to that of Wilkie Collins, while the characters are drawn with great firmness and decision. The whole tone is manly and vigorous, and though the tragic element enters largely into the story, there is nothing of that morbid vein which characterizes the "Sensation Stories" of the newest school of English female novelists.

One vol. 12mo, cloth, handsomely printed, with an emblematic frontispiece. Price, $1 50.

It is difficult to give any adequate idea of the varied and curious topics of which this eminently interesting volume treats. It is a valuable array of the best thoughts, impressions and beliefs of the most distinguished minds on the phenomena of Life, Death, and Futurity; it is such a common-place-book as some thoughtful divine might have compiled, and in its thousand and one references to the works and opinions of our best and greatest writers is not inferior, as an interesting literary curiosity, to the famous "Anatomy of Melancholy." It is indeed astonishing what a mass of curious facts, anecdotes, personal traits of character, and notable opinions, are brought together in its pages; and with what peculiar and fascinating interest the editor has invested his themes.

HELMBOLD'S REMEDIES.

THE GREAT "AMERICAN REMEDIES," KNOWN AS
"HELMBOLD'S"
GENUINE PREPARATIONS, viz.:
HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT "BUCHU."
HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA
HELMBOLD'S IMPROVED ROSE WASH.

☞ HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATION,
"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED"
COMPOUND
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and specific Remedy for Diseases of the BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL and DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.

This medicine increases the power of digestion and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the water or calcareous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements, are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for Men, Women or Children.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

for Weaknesses arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse, attended with the FOLLOWING SYMPTOMS:

Indisposition to Exertion,
Loss of Memory,
Weak Nerves,
Horror of Disease,
Dimness of Vision,
Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System,
Hot Hands,
Dryness of the Skin.
Loss of Power
Difficulty in Breathing,
Trembling,
Wakefulness,
Pain in the Back,
Flushing of the Body,
Eruptions on the Face,
Pallid Countenance,

These symptoms, if allowed to go on, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follow

IMPOTENCY, FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS,

in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION!

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the Insane Asylums, and the melancholy deaths by Consumption, bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

THE CONSTITUTION ONCE AFFECTED BY ORGANIC WEAKNESS, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most skeptical.

FEMALES! FEMALES! FEMALES!

OLD OR YOUNG, SINGLE, MARRIED, OR CONTEMPLATING MARRIAGE.

In many affections peculiar to Females, the Extract Buchu is unequaled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularities, Painfulness, or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Scirrhous state of the Uterus, Leucorrhea or Whites, Sterility, and for all complaints incident to the sex, whether arising from indiscretion, Habits of Dissipation, or in the DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE.

SEE SYMPTOMS ABOVE.

NO FAMILY SHOULD BE WITHOUT.

Take no Balsam, Mercury or Unpleasant Medicine, for Unpleasant and Dangerous Diseases.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU
CURES SECRET DISEASES

in all their stages, at little Expense; little or no change in Diet; no inconvenience, AND NO EXPOSURE.

It causes frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby removing obstructions, preventing and curing strictures of the urethra, allaying pain and inflammation, so frequent in this class of diseases, and expelling POISONOUS, DISEASED AND WORN-OUT MATTER.

Thousands upon thousands who have been the

VICTIMS OF QUACKS,

and who have paid HEAVY FEES to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the "Poison" has, by the use of "Powerful Astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in an aggravated form, and

PERHAPS AFTER MARRIAGE.

USE

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

for all Affections and Diseases of the URINARY ORGANS, whether existing in MALE OR FEMALE, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. Diseases of these Organs require the aid of a DIURETIC.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU
IS THE GREAT DIURETIC,

and it is certain to have the desired effect in all Diseases for which it is recommended.

BLOOD! BLOOD! BLOOD!

HELMBOLD'S HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA.

SYPHILIS.

This is an affection of the Blood, and attacks the sexual organs, Linings of the Nose, Ears, Throat, Windpipe and other Mucus Surfaces, making its appearance in the form of Ulcers. HELMBOLD'S Extract Sarsaparilla purifies the Blood, and removes all Scaly Eruptions of the Skin, giving to the Complexion a Clear and Healthy Color. It being prepared expressly for this class of complaints, its Blood-purifying properties are preserved to a greater extent than any other preparation of Sarsaparilla.

HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH,

an excellent lotion for diseases of a Syphilitic nature, and as an injection in diseases of the Urinary Organs arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines.
